Elmore Has Doubts.

President Howard W. Elmore declared that he had reason to believe that some of the political sponsorship signatures were forgeries, and that the legislators were on the rolls without the knowledge of the alleged sponsor.

The records disclose that no political favoritism was shown by the district trustees in paying out taxpayers' money in the form of salaries to the members of the assembly.

Prosecutor Loesch said he was particularly interested in the fact that some of the assembly job holders were listed under the word "trustees" as their sponsors. Whether these appointments were the payment for favorable legislation for the district will be a subject of investigation, it was announced.

During the period of service of most of the legislative pay rollers several acts beneficial to the sanitary district were passed by the legislature. Chief among them was the act which boosted the district's bonding power from 4 per cent of the total taxable valuation for construction purposes to 5 per cent. The bond limit was thus raised from $184,000.00 to $230,000.00.

If the legislators cannot be subpoenaed before the present grand jury, which has only one more week to operate, they will be called before the next body, it was announced. A petition for the new jury will be filed today so that no time is lost between the discharge of the present jury and the impaneling of the new body.

Berger Presents Figures.

Trustee Henry A. Berger yesterday supplied the grand jury with additional facts and figures which further disclosed the muddled financial condition of the district.

Another feature of the grand jury session was the appearance of Trustee Frank J. Link, the lone Deneen member of the board when the pay rolls were loaded with 4,800 employees, with Attorney Michael Aherne, a Criminal court practitioner known for his attacks on the legality of special grand juries.

Mr. Link felt that he needed legal advice, was the only comment Attorney Aherne would make.

"I had him just simply as a bodyguard," said Trustee Link in explaining the presence of the attorney. "You see, I am not a lawyer myself. You know, President Howard Elmore had his lawyer with him when he appeared before the grand jury."

Mr. Link's memory seemed to be just as faulty yesterday as it was the day before, according to Prosecutors David Stansbury and Thomas D. Slusser.

Questioned on Earnings.

It was rumored that Link's attitude was somewhat antagonistic when the jury questioned him about his personal finances. He, however, is said to have emphatically denied that he ever received a penny, directly or indirectly, outside of his salary as trustee.

Trustee Berger told the grand jurors that the district is up against a financial situation that will be hard to untangle. He told the jury that work required by the government this year under the water diversion permit is under contract for $12,140,000. Approximately three million dollars of this sum is now due for completed work. Work yet to be done and not contracted for before Dec. 31, 1929, under the government permit totals $32,442,800.

Other items required this year include, he said, relief and outlet sewers for the country towns, south side intercepting sewers, California avenue outlet, Oak Park relief sewer, Harlem avenue bridge, Western avenue bridge, and Racine avenue pumping station, at an estimated cost of $39,719,000.

Bond Requirements Told.

In addition to these items Trustee Berger told the jurors that the district must pay $14,557,355 during the present year to retire bonds. They come due as follows:

Jan. ...	$1,475,970.00	July ...	2,845,000.00
Feb. ...	204,182.50	Aug. ...	1,194,187.50
March ...	256,229.00	Sept. ...	718,000.00
April ...	1,202,537.50	Oct. ...	1,478,087.50
May ...	1,991,487.50	Nov. ...	2,297,700.00
June ...	1,238,975.00

In addition the board will need an estimated $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 for the corporate fund, he said, in order to operate the district. The bond repayments and the corporate fund will come out of the tax levy, but the other money must come from another bond issue, he explained. Under the present law a bond issue must go to the voters on a referendum.

History of Boulevard.

The history of McCormick boulevard as gleaned from the records of the district was also given to the jury by Berger. The latter was a member of the board while this boulevard was being built.

The resolution authorizing McCormick boulevard was introduced in 1923 by Willis Nance. The first bid on the project was rejected and new specifications ordered. Three contracting firms participated in the work when it was awarded by the board. The John A. McGarry company was given the first section at a cost of $262,537.50 and the James A. Sackley company was given the second section at $331,250. The M. E. White company was given the subway construction work at $154,448.30.

Extras Are Voted.

During 1925 the board voted four times to award extras to the contractors. The proposition was covered in the forty-second bond issue of the board, calling for $5,000,000 for construction, among other things, of the north shore channel road. The records show other projects included in this bond issue. Trustee Berger was asked how much of this bond issue

ARLIE BOSWELL FOUND GUILTY OF LIQUOR PLOT

Three Other Defendants Are Convicted.

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Arlie Boswell, former state's attorney of Williamson county, Ill., was found guilty of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act by a jury in United States District court here today.

Three other defendants were also found guilty while the fifth, Thomas Boyd, former Marion, Ill., chief of police, was found not guilty. The convicted are George Bell, former Williamson county coroner; Hezzie Byrn, former Johnston City police chief, and Pete Salmo, alleged bootlegger.

Judge Walter C. Lindley denied the defense motion for a new trial. He also deferred passing sentence.

The jury deliberated three hours and seven minutes. They had been instructed by Judge Lindley not to worry about possible punishment in case of conviction.

Confession Plain.

"The evidence is plain," he said in the charge to the jury, "that a conspiracy under the leadership of Charles Birger did exist in Williamson county. It is your duty to determine if Arlie Boswell and his four co-defendants were parties to that conspiracy."

He made no reference to his order of yesterday, which held Jake Gruenitz, alleged bootlegger of Weaver, Ill., and a defense witness, in $10,000 bail for perjury.

The five day trial constituted a history of Williamson county while Boswell was state's attorney. Almost every crime committed in and around Marion and Heir in the last four years was brought into the record.

The jurors all lived in the area where Birger's gang engaged in wholesale killing and liquor running. Nine of the jury were farmers, one an automobile dealer, one an insurance agent, and the other a service station proprietor.

Convicts on Stand.

The government offered evidence through police officers, former public officials, bootleggers and convicts to prove Boswell conspired with the Birgerites in the protection of the liquor traffic in Williamson county.

It was brought out the National Guard was called into the county five times during the four years. Boswell also admitted he was not in Williamson county that day, although Sheriff Oren Coleman testified he had asked Boswell to ask for the militia to protect Heir.

Art Newman, former Birger lieutenant, and now serving two life sentences for murder, for one of which his chief was hanged, was a government witness. He told of Boswell's frequenting Shady Rest, the gang headquarters, of ordering the Heir riots, of suggesting the killing of Sheriff Coleman and being the one who instigated the slaying of Mary Price, state highway patrolman, and Mrs. Price. Newman also told of collecting "protection money" for Boswell.

CONTROVERSY TIES UP CITY ACCEPTANCE OF AERIAL BEACON LIGHT

Hastened efforts by the Chicago aero commission to speed the construction of the proposed Lindbergh air beacon light, possibly on the new Palmolive skyscraper in North Michigan avenue, will be made at a meeting of the commission next week, Ald. A. J. Horan (58th), a member, announced yesterday.

The searchlight has been offered as a gift to Chicago by Elmer G. Sperry, president of the Sperry Gyroscope company of Brooklyn, who formerly lived here. According to Mr. Sperry, the light will have a 55 inch lens and will cast a beam of 1,000 candlepower per square millimeter, visible to a flyer 250 miles away. It will cost $100,000. Mr. Sperry asks the city to pay $16,000 for its erection.

Mr. Sperry offered the light to Chicago in 1927 but several difficulties have arisen to block its acceptance, among them the construction of the Greenbaum & Sons beacon on the Roanoke tower. The Greenbaum company claims to have exclusive rights to a beacon in this territory. The aero commission has asked the war department for a permit for the Lindbergh light.

Several months ago the commission tentatively contracted with the Morrison hotel to put the light on a 200 foot tower above that building. Then the Greenbaum controversy balked the city's appropriation.

Ald. Horan announced yesterday that Mr. Sperry has written to George F. Getz, chairman of the mayor's advisory committee, asking him to intercede and speed up the project.

Mr. Sperry suggested the Palmolive building as a more favorable location than the Morrison hotel. Mr. Getz, in turn, appealed to the aero commission which already has started negotiations with the war department.

Ald. Horan stated that Maj. Reed Landis, chairman of the commission, has called a special meeting for the first of next week when a definite decision is to be made as to which building will get the light. Should the war department decision be favorable, the commission will forward its recommendation to the city council which has adopted a resolution to appropriate money whenever the matter is straightened out.

PERSIA PUTS ITS MEN IN TROUSERS; BANS BLOOMERS

Native Garb Wearers Face Jail Terms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] [Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.] TEHRAN, Persia, Jan. 25.—Clothes make the man, but in oriental Persia they go further than that—they make him European, whether he likes it or not. After New Year's day, which in this country is the first day of spring, any man found in native costume in cities and towns, will be fined.

If he persists in his aversion to the habiliments of the western world, he will be imprisoned until he convinces himself that the sartorial splendor of his alien bloomers cannot compare with rather drab cut of a pair of American trousers. The peasants are given a full year before they must encase their muscular shoulders in collage cut sack coats and cover their legs for the twelve or more pockets.

Field Day for Tailors.

But the walls rising from the irate men are sweet music to the ears of one hitherto lowly class in the country. The tailors are overjoyed at this windfall. Heretofore they had little to do, since garment making was just as much a part of the housework as cooking or washing the dishes.

Now tailor shops are springing up everywhere, and smart young men are learning to cross their legs in the traditional fashion, as they ply busy needles on copies of the latest Bond street models. Tailors from the Caucasus and other remote spots are flocking into Persia to take advantage of this unprecedented situation.

The joy of the tailors is only excelled by that of the haters. These, providing that the federal government not obligate the federal government to any other expense than that necessary to insure "suitable recognition."

O. K. OF CHICAGO FAIR PREDICTED IN SENATE TODAY

President Will Invite Nations to Take Part

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Senate approval tomorrow for passage this afternoon, the President to invite the participation of foreign nations in the centennial celebration in 1933 appeared virtually certain today as a result of a favorable report, unanimously adopted by the senate finance committee.

Senator Charles S. Deneen (Ill.) expected to call the measure for passage this afternoon, but the senate remained in session after the death of Chief Justice Underwood, former senator from Illinois, was announced.

Must Raise $5,000,000.

Under the resolution, as originally offered in the house, the President whenever he is satisfied that the sum of the new world's fair has raised at least $5,000,000 to fund the project, will invite foreign nations to send exhibits displaying their national progress in industry, art and science during the last century.

To quiet the fears of certain members who recalled the Philadelphia Sesqui-centennial fiasco, an amendment was added on the house floor providing that the resolution was not to obligate the federal government to any other expense than that necessary to insure "suitable recognition."

UNDERWOOD DIES; LAST BIG MAN IN 1912 CONVENTION

Alabamian in Congress for 32 Years.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Death of former Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama today marked the passing of the last of the big figures of the famous Democratic convention of 1912.

Not only had his rival presidential candidates preceded him in death, but nearly all the others of greatest prominence at that notable gathering at Baltimore had passed away before him. Mr. Underwood died at his Virginia home after a long illness at the age of 66.

The four principal presidential candidates of 1912 were Woodrow Wilson, who won the nomination on the 4th ballot; Champ Clark of Missouri; Judson Harmon of Ohio, and Mr. Underwood. All now are gone. Mr. Underwood, then the Democratic leader of the house, started with 117 1/2 votes on the first ballot and held his strength consistently throughout the contest.

Bryan's Dramatic Fight.

Other prominent figures in the convention who have passed during the 16 1/2 years that have elapsed include Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, who was nominated for Vice President; William Jennings Bryan, who made a dramatic, although unsuccessful, fight as a candidate for temporary chairman and later triumphed when he was instrumental in defeating Clark and nominating Wilson; Alton B. Parker of New York, who was elected temporary chairman in opposition to Bryan; Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, whose huge figure and stirring oratory as permanent chairman commanded attention; Senator John W. Kern of Indiana, who was chairman of the resolutions committee; William F. McCombs of New York, who was the Wilson manager and subsequently named as chairman of the Democratic national committee; Thomas F. Ryan and August Belmont, New York financiers, who were seated as members of the Tammany delegation and drew an attack from Bryan in one of the latter's memorable outbursts; Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader who bore the brunt of much of Bryan's fire; Roger Sullivan of Illinois, who was credited with having a good deal to do with Wilson's nomination, and George E. Brennan, who later succeeded Sullivan as boss of the Illinois Democracy.

Active Again in 1924.

Mr. Underwood again was an active presidential candidate in the 1924 New York convention when the principal contest was between Al Smith and William G. McAdoo, with the nomination finally going to John W. Davis. The Alabama veteran, who was known as "Uncle Underwood," which was loudly announced on more than 100 ballots during the record breaking deadlock attracted attention not only in the convention but among the nation-wide radio audience.

Distinguished Career.

Few men have had a more distinguished career of public service than Mr. Underwood. He served in the house from the Ninth Alabama district for 20 years from 1895 to 1915. He was the Democratic leader of the house and chairman of the ways and means committee during the last four years of that period. His name was attached to the Underwood tariff bill enacted in 1913 and he figured conspicuously as party leader in the house during the first few years of the Wilson administration.

From 1915 to 1927, twelve years, Mr. Underwood served in the senate, his service in congress thus extending over a period of 32 years. He became the Democratic leader of the senate in 1920, but declined to continue in the post in 1922. He retired voluntarily from the senate in 1927.

While a member of the senate Mr. Underwood served by appointment of President Harding in 1921 as a member of the American delegation to the conference on the limitation of armaments. A year ago he was recalled to temporary public service by President Coolidge, who selected him as a member of the American delegation to the fifth Pan-American conference in Havana.

Classed as Conservative. Throughout his career Mr. Underwood was classed as a conservative. He consistently opposed radical measures. He was one of the few wets from a southern state. At the time of his presidential candidacy in 1924 he publicly denounced the Ku Klux Klan.

Mr. Underwood was born in Louisville, Ky., on May 6, 1862. After a few years spent in St. Paul, Minn., in his boyhood days, he attended the University of Virginia and in 1884 commenced the study of law in Birmingham, Ala. While in the state he purchased Woodlawn, a historic estate near Mount Vernon, Va., not far distant from Washington, and had made his home there most of the time since. He was married twice and survived by his widow and two sons.

Senate Is Adjourned.

Early in December Mr. Underwood suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and two weeks later was stricken with paralysis. He rallied from that attack, but had a relapse a few days ago. Announcement of his death in the senate by Senator J. Thomas Heflin (Dem., Ala.), at the opening of today's session caused an immediate adjournment.

KILLED IN LEAP

MISS LETA WICHART.

Mrs. Leta M. Montgomery, 7330 Aberdeen street, mother of Leta Wichart, the Chicago girl who was killed in Hollywood, Cal., Thursday in a 2,000 foot leap from an airplane when her parachute failed to open, told yesterday of her vain efforts to persuade Leta to give up her dangerous life.

"Leta's stunts weren't work to her," Mrs. Montgomery said. "She loved thrills, so I suppose that after all she got what she wanted out of life." Mrs. Montgomery said she and her daughter's husband, Floyd Bowman, a stunt aviator, had both pleaded with the girl to give up her stunts. "She knew that I suffered constant anxiety and every time she jumped from a plane she sent me a wire as soon as she had landed safely," Mrs. Montgomery said.

Miss Wichart had made 129 successful parachute jumps before she was killed.

FACTIONS AGREE ON NEW BILL FOR CALUMET HARBOR

Meet in Harmony; Up to Council.

Prospects for a fresh start on the long delayed Lake Calumet industrial harbor project brightened yesterday with the apparent assurance that factional forces in the city hall and South Chicago, which for years have been at odds, are united behind a new program of procedure.

The so-called harmony movement, arising out of the ruins of the defunct Thompson-Bolsat plan, came to a focus at a meeting of Ald. Guy Guernsey's council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges. The committee unanimously approved a new harbor bill to supersede the act of 1927 upon which the Thompson plan was based. The bill will go to the council Wednesday, and then to the legislature.

All Sides Represented.

Present at the session and agreeable to the bill were representatives of both the Guernsey and Thompson city hall factions, heretofore at odds; delegates from the larger south side business groups, which also have been in dispute, and each of the aldermen from the Calumet district.

The new bill, approved by the harbor committee, retains some features of both the acts of 1921 and 1927. It restores to the city the ownership of the bed of the lake, taken away by the 1927 law, thus allowing it to fill in and sell sites for factories. It also removes the 50 year lease and 10 year tax revaluation clauses in the 1927 act which, it was said, would have frightened industries away.

Plan, Special Tax.

The one feature of the 1927 act retained is that for a special harbor tax. This had been set at 1/4 mill on each $100 of assessed valuation, but was reduced by the committee to 1/8 mill. This, the proponents believe, will furnish sufficient funds to dig the initial basin and finance municipal docks and warehouses. Ald. Guernsey, however, believes the special tax may be sacrificed in a showdown and made land sales will be adequate to finance the project, although more slowly.

OPEN CHICAGO'S 1929 AUTO SHOW THIS AFTERNOON

Motordom's New Models
Crowd Coliseum.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Chicago's twenty-ninth annual automobile show will be thrown open to the public in the Coliseum.

The first chord of a blaring week in the automotive life of the middle west was struck last night when nearly 2,000 dealers, distributors and salesmen, gathered from the Chicago distribution region, were seated at the annual banquet of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association at the Palmer house. This function constitutes the formal launching of show week.

The attendance at the banquet this year was said to be the largest on record. Among the officials at the speakers' table were George Graham, vice president of the Willis-Overland company; A. E. Cord, president of the Auburn Automobile company; J. R. Hilsted, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association; Al Reeves, general manager of the national automobile chamber of commerce; J. E. Fields, vice president of the De Soto corporation, and Warren E. Griffith, president of the National Automobile Dealers' association.

300 Types on Display.

Not only at the Coliseum, where forty-six American manufacturers will display 300 individual car types for the coming week, is the interest in automotive products centered. There are also special showings in many hotels and permanent salesrooms, the regular automobile salon at the Drake hotel and special salons scattered about the city.

Chicago's leadership as a convention center is indicated by reports last night from all leading hotels that practically every transient room in the downtown area is under reservation for the week. Excursions on many of the railroads were made effective yesterday.

Officials to Inspect Show.

The complete exhibition of the Coliseum will be inspected at 10 o'clock this morning by national automobile chamber of commerce officials. When their approval is given, the management will prepare for the public opening at 2 o'clock.

Manager S. A. Miles said last night that all details of scenery arrangement, grouping of cars, accessories and other exhibits, lighting and musical features, had been completed and that no hitch was in evidence that might cause delay in the inauguration of the $5,000,000 show.

Mayor Welcomes Visitors.

A proclamation of welcome to those who visit the city for the show period was issued yesterday by Mayor William Hale Thompson.

To the men who have played leading roles in the evolution of the automobile, civilization owes a great debt of gratitude."

Accountant Found Dead in Home; Believed Suicide

Charles Mooney, 51 years old, a certified public accountant, was found dead in his home at 141 East 114th street last night under circumstances leading police to believe he took his own life. A gas jet of the kitchen range was open, and apparently Mooney had been dead for nearly two weeks.

Mrs. Bernadine Mooney, 22 years old, the accountant's daughter, told police she had left her father's home two weeks ago following a quarrel. "You'll never see me alive again," the daughter said Mooney told her.

Jane Addams Goes West to Overcome Bronchitis

Miss Jane Addams, founder of Hull House, left last night for Tucson, Ariz. She was accompanied by Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, 1430 Astor street. Miss Addams has been ill of bronchitis trouble, although she said yesterday before leaving that she was feeling better. She had been planning the trip for some time, but previously had felt unable to travel. She and Mrs. Bowen plan to remain in Tucson for a month.

Baldwin to Unveil Statue to Old foe, Mrs. Pankhurst

LONDON, Jan. 25.—[U.P.]—The revenge that time exacts was seen today when Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin consented to unveil a seven foot bronze statue of the suffragette firebrand, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst. The statue is to be erected in Westminster next summer. Old timers chuckled, recalling how Mr. Baldwin used to denounce Mrs. Pankhurst and all her works.

PLEDGE DEFINITE ACTION MONDAY ON BRIDGE EVIL

Subcommittee Will Draft
Recommendations.

The city council's subcommittee, appointed to consider an ordinance to keep Chicago's bridges closed except during the early morning nontraffic hours, will meet to draft definite recommendations on Monday, Ald. W. A. Rowan [10th], chairman, announced yesterday.

Ald. Rowan denied reports that the subcommittee has gone to sleep on the job. It has been waiting for reports to be made to it by the interested river shippers and the Chicago Association of Commerce, he said. These reports are expected to be ready by Monday.

Toman on Warpath Again. Meanwhile Ald. John Toman [33d], sponsor of the ordinance, went on the warpath again against the tactics that the city has used in dealing with the bridge nuisance.

"It's the same old story—consult the river shippers," he asserted. "Of course the boat owners don't want the bridges shut. Every time the council gets after them they come in with a long tale of woe about how much money they are going to lose and how much business is going to be driven to Milwaukee. And somehow, every time, the works get clogged up in the council and nothing is done."

Need Federal Approval.

Ald. Rowan declared that he is in favor of more drastic bridge hour restrictions to keep the spans down during traffic hours, but expressed the view that they cannot be fixed until a harbor is built to accommodate the craft now using the river. He pointed out further that whatever action the council takes must be approved by the war department, which controls navigation on inland waters.

Coolidge O. K.'s $3,000 Yr. Pension for Mrs. Marshall

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[U.P.]—President Coolidge today signed the bill for an annual pension of $3,000 to Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, wife of the former Vice President.

The house today passed a bill increasing from $125 to $250 monthly the pension of Mrs. Walter Reed, widow of the famous army medical officer who discovered that yellow fever was transmitted by mosquito bites. The bill contained a pension clause of $125 monthly for each of the twenty-one former soldiers or their widows who assisted Reed in his experiments with yellow fever in Cuba.

sought in connection with a Wilmette holdup and the robbery of the Savoy ballroom; William Davis, arrested and identified as one of the men who held up the Calumet Baking Powder company plant and later released on bond; Edward Donnelly, Tony De Waedo, Fred Smith, and Tommy Abbott. The latter four all are said to have police records.

The purposes of the raid, it was announced, are twofold: to drive the undesirable out of the city and to enable victims of crimes to come to the show-up on Sunday and view every crook the police can find. Commissioner of Police William F. Russell and Deputy Commissioner John P. Stagg, in charge of detectives, said they wanted none of the underworld characters Commissioner Whalen is driving out of New York City to locate here. The raids consequently are in the nature of a reception to eastern castoffs.

Act on Sudden Orders.

Last Monday more than 400 persons attended the showup that followed Sunday's raids and a number of identifications were made, but the campaign had been not altogether unexpected and the better known criminals had not been picked up. Sudden orders were given last night to all the deputy commissioners to mobilize their men and make a quick descent on the hangouts of crooks and hoodlums in the hope of getting the aristocrats of gangdom.

Even though not a great many convictions follow the arrests, Commissioner Russell and Deputy Stagg think they are in a fair way to clear the city of men who will not be missed. Last week's raids resulted in arraignment of 2,430 prisoners in the various branches of the Municipal court after Chief of Detectives John Egan had culled out the harmless.

Question All Suspects.

The success of the previous roundup of all known criminals and racketeers inspired Commissioner Russell to the belief that in this way the city can change its reputation from crime ridden to rid of crime. The action of Judge Frank Comerford, acting as chief justice of the Criminal court, in refusing writs of habeas corpus to the prisoners had been hailed as of great assistance to the police department and an assurance that the power of the criminal organizations in the city had been broken.

Commissioner Russell gave orders that from the moment the drive started until it ends a commanding officer of a grade not lower than lieutenant shall be in every police station and question every prisoner brought in. The men arrested are to be asked about their employment, their families, their places of residence, and the circumstances attending their being arrested.

It was explained this procedure is to prevent any injustice being done to persons taken merely because they are in bad company or because they are in places of bad reputa-

BALDWIN SAILS FOR PARIS WITH MISS LENGLEN

New York, Saturday, Jan. 26.—[U.P.]—Suzanne Lenglen, former French tennis star, sailed for home aboard the French liner Paris early today after a tempestuous two months' visit in this country.

Baldwin M. Baldwin of California, who, it is said, she is to marry as soon as he obtains a divorce, escorted the temperamental Suzanne aboard the liner to the booming of photographers' flashlights. He had several tussles with the numerous photographers in an unsuccessful effort to prevent them taking pictures.

"Arrest that man; that man is responsible," Suzanne shouted, adding her bit to the excitement. No one was arrested, however.

Baldwin said that he was going to Cannes to continue his work in the investment field. To all queries as to what his plans were in regard to divorce and marriage he said, "Answer that yourself."

EX-MAGISTRATE GETS 99 YEARS IN ATTACK CASE

Two Village Officials Are Convicted in Day.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Charles G. Krotz, rape, sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

James Armstrong, murder, sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary for the criminal offense by Judge D. J. Normoy.

Leonard De Ma, larceny, sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

William McKinna, burglary, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary by Judge Frank Comerford.

Paul Washington, robbery, sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Michael Guller, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Alex Moody, murder, sentenced for 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Officials of two villages adjoining Chicago were found guilty by Criminal court judges last evening, one as a rapist and the other for attempting to commit a similar crime.

Charles G. Krotz, 38 years old, for 12 years justice of the peace at Broadview, was given a record sentence of 99 years in the penitentiary by a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's court. He was found guilty of attacking a 13 year old girl at whose home he formerly lived. John H. Hamilton, former mayor of Midlothian, faces a 1 to 14 year sentence in the penitentiary for attempted rape on the wife of a Chicago policeman.

Refused New Trial.

Krotz received a sentence given only two or three times in the past to rapists. Judge Miller promptly refused him a new trial and ordered him to the penitentiary pending review of his case in the event he decides to appeal to the Supreme court. His bond of $10,000 was revoked and a new bond of $10,000 set by the judge.

The jury convicted Krotz on the first ballot, and then only a few minutes was needed to win over the one dissenter to the 99 year sentence asked by Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin. Krotz, a married man, was charged with having made repeated attacks on his little victim during a period of several months. The prosecution introduced several letters written on the official stationery of the justice, in which he asked the girl not to prosecute.

Associate of Indian Joe.

"For twelve years Krotz was an associate of Indian Joe Huszar, the man who blackmailed motorists along Roosevelt road," said Prosecutor Lavin in reply to Krotz's contention of former good character. "That does not seem to me to be a recommendation for any man."

Former Mayor Hamilton was charged with having attempted to attack Mrs. Johanna Ludwig, 33 years old. His paid attentions to her while her husband was in a hospital, and on April 24, 1923, attempted to attack her when he found her alone in her room.

Assistant State's Attorney George R. Carmichael said that much difficulty was encountered during the early stages of the prosecution of Hamilton because of his political backing.

Mrs. Hamilton, wife of the defendant, fainting at the trial yesterday and another woman spectator became hysterical. When the verdict was read she faint again. Hamilton again became hysterical.

LAW GOVERNING TRUCK WEIGHT HELD ILLEGAL

The city ordinance governing the maximum weight to be carried by motor trucks in Chicago was declared invalid in a test case yesterday before Judge Warren H. Orr of Carthage, Ill., sitting in the Municipal court.

Judge Orr made his decision after the defendant, J. D. Foley, a driver for the Consumers company, had been acquitted by a jury. Foley was arrested when found driving a truck loaded with building material 2,000 pounds in excess of the 30,000 pounds gross weight prescribed by the ordinance.

Judge Orr was brought in because of the many local angles involved in the case. His decision was regarded as a victory for trucking companies, which have held that the ordinance is illegal. Judge Orr declared that the ordinance does not classify trucks into six and four wheel classes, as does the state law, and that owners of four wheel trucks are discriminated against in the ordinance.

The city will now amend the ordinance or pass another practically identical with the state law, which allows 40,000 pounds, including the vehicle and the load, for six wheel trucks, and 24,000 pounds for four wheeled trucks, according to H. L. Dunn, chief investigator for Ald. Max Adamowak's committee on efficiency, economy and rehabilitation.

Mexicans Kidnap Britisher; Demand $5,000 Ransom

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25.—(P)—S. H. James, an English mining man, has been kidnaped near Tototlan, state of Jalisco, and is being held for $5,000 ransom. The British legation today made representations to the government and troops were ordered to rescue him.

WIFE SEEKS TO ANNUL DIVORCE IN QUEER TANGLE

Mrs. Henrietta Hemmerling, 3408 North Irving avenue, yesterday petitioned Judge Joseph Sabath to set aside a divorce obtained on July 2 last by Pierre Hemmerling. She sets up that she agreed to manufacture evidence for him so he could return to the good graces of her parents, but that he has failed to carry out an understanding that they were to be remarried following the decree. She alleges that she has been defrauded out of a $20,000 interest in real estate.

Before the divorce the Hemmerlings were not happy together. In the minds of the wife's parents the husband was responsible, the petition relates. He asked to admit responsibility so as to clear himself in the eyes of his parents-in-law, so the story goes, and she, believing it might solve their marital troubles, signed a purported confession to misconduct with W. R. Woodward, who had roomed with them. The husband obtained a divorce without contest.

Then Comes Quarrel.

The Hemmerlings continued to live together for several weeks after the decree was granted, she relates. She was content to postpone the remarriage, believing she was starting a new era in her domestic experience. Then there was a quarrel and Hemmerling put his ex-wife out of their home, she charges.

Mrs. Hemmerling recently met Mr. Woodward by chance and mentioned that his name had been used in the divorce case. Woodward went to Attorney Lloyd A. Faxon. Attorney Faxon went before Judge Sabath yesterday.

Files Are Missing.

When the clerk called the case it was discovered that the transcript of testimony at the divorce trial was missing from the files.

"They were there three weeks ago when I looked up the case," Attorney Faxon reported to the court, "and now they have mysteriously disappeared."

The hearing on the petition was continued for a search for the files.

ROTHSCHILD

State at Jackson

To the Chicago Tribune DEAR EDITOR

We read with amusement your editorial of yesterday, Jan. 25, in which you remark that:

"Men slide furtively from suit to suit without distinction."

"Clothes for a man are a kind of private office in which he does his work, with standardized equipment, pockets, straps, belts, pens, knives, pouches, bills, keys, and the like, conveniently distributed about him. His daily marching equipment will be many packages, nine to fifteen of them, stowed away neatly in their woolen pigeonholes, and his clothes are built to fit them. The vest, particularly, that otherwise is ugly, uncomfortable, useless, and barbaric, is in effect a pouch for various instruments and properties worn around the middle."

"It took the French revolution to get man's breeches off, and with the success of sans culottes as a slogan men became long-panted. It will take another cataclysm, no doubt, to reform his clothing further and to suit it to the modern times. Heavy, padded, binding where the most action comes, men's clothes need today a reformation. They are insatiable, unwashable, winter and summer, and the intelligence and beauty of modern women's styles are not in them. Men are accustomed to smile satirically at woman's fervor over dress. But change and energy in women in this respect have brought clothes evolution. Where men are mired in snug discomfort, women in clothes are a century ahead."

May we ask you to come forth from your sanctum and observe what has been occurring all about you?

In the dusty pages of history, you, surrounded by your musty tomes, find that "it took the French revolution to get man's breeches off," and "men became long-panted."

You then evidently yearn for "another cataclysm to reform his clothing further."

Can it be, dear Editor, that the sprightly and successful salesmen of the Chicago Tribune's advertising department still wear the skin-tight pants of the Directorate?

Do they still call upon Mr. Sloan of General Motors, clad in the voluminous, almost be-skirted trousers of the abolitionist '50s?

Or possibly, your "national boys," in graceful bellbottoms of the Victorian '80s, court Mr. Wrigley and P. K. for contracts?

And we are not quite sure that Stanley Resor prefers to give Fleischmann yeast advertising to space salesmen clad in coats with the immensely padded shoulders of the heroic Graustark period in American dress?

Ask your salesmen! We wonder if the boys who have sold your good merchandise to the tune of 30,000,000 agate lines per year to today's generation of business executives will not tell you of another revolution as important in its way as the French Revolution!

The Tribune's selling soldiers on the firing line, and all other salesmen, know that the industrial revolution of today has exalted all selling—and the human contacts it requires—to an extent undreamed of, even the comparatively few years ago when you left College Cloisters to enter the Tribune's quiet sanctum.

So, in this age of selling, which has developed hand in hand with Mass Distribution following on the heels of Mass Production, the individual more than ever before must be presentable, up to date, and with the confidence bred by smartness prepared to face—and sell—and serve his prospects who are difficult to find, hard to reach, often surrounded by corps of aides, sometimes just hard-boiled enough to say "Not in," even to hearts of gold that beat under shabby vests or last year's coat.

Your own salesmen know this! Ask them! Or merely observe them!

Try to find the bulging pockets stuffed with nonsense.

Today's clothes are built smartly to fit the men.

Come to our leather goods section and we will show you the kind of brief cases your salesmen use for pencils, stationery, data and other stuff that once appalled tailors and annoyed aesthetes.

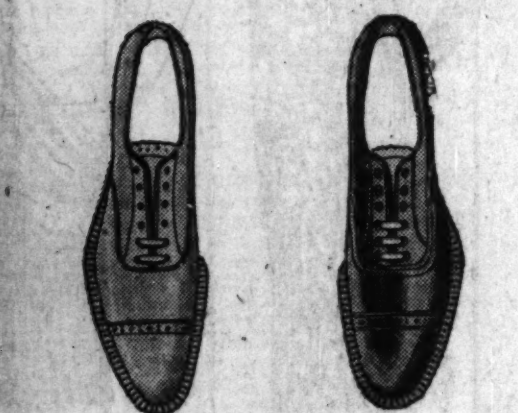

Why, Mr. Editor, even your printers look like doctors today. Few corncocks left in composing rooms.

And as for physicians, lawyers, engineers and such, we all know that whilst apparel doesn't always proclaim the man, it nevertheless is an aid and accessory of the first importance.

By the way, ask the inquiring reporter about this matter or, better still, come over today to The Store for Men and we will tell you about today's styles, their comfort as well as modernity.

A cordial welcome always awaits you and all others.

BOARD WILL ASK STATE TO REVAMP COUNTY'S TAXES

Bill Provides Study of Financial Inequalities.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

An appeal to the legislature to create a committee to start the job of bringing all taxation in Cook county under centralized control is to be made by the county board. President A. J. Cermak and the commissioners, sitting as the finance committee, voted yesterday to descend upon Springfield with a program which, they declare, means a new financial epoch in Cook county.

The plan, which was worked out in conjunction with J. Scott Matthews, was presented by Commissioners Harry Newby and Emmet Wheelan, and is to be introduced in the house of representatives on Tuesday by Rep. William G. Thon of the Oak Park district.

Thorough Study Sought.

Briefly, the program for tax reform and reduction calls for a stop to the log rolling and piecemeal rate making, imposing additional tax burdens, which takes place at nearly every session of the assembly. With the bars up, the legislature is then, through a committee, to make a thorough study of rates and the necessities of the many taxing bodies, with a view to trimming them down to actual needs.

The plan, under which the county estimates it can take care of $4,489,964 yearly obligations loaded upon it in the last decade without a tax rate increase, is:

1. The legislature is asked to pass no bills this session increasing Cook county's expenditures without making full inquiry as to how the total burden of taxes may be affected.
2. Creation of a legislative committee, with full power of subpoena, before which all taxing bodies in the county shall appear with budgets and financial statements to justify their present tax rates. When inequalities are found, the committee shall recommend a reallocation of tax rates.

Endorses Matthews-Thon Bill.

This bill is endorsed. This measure for central control of taxation in Cook county through a board of estimate and apportionment of taxes. A rigid budget system is required.

4. Emergency legislation is asked for a supplemental budget, as the present assessment will not be finished in time for the present budget.

The aim of the program is to place taxes in Cook county on the basis of the ability of the tax payers to pay and not on the capacity of tax spending bodies to spend.

Recorder Clayton F. Smith, in approving the program for equitable apportionment announced that he has assigned Mr. Matthews, his chief examiner of titles in the Torrens system, to the legislative task.

Consolidation Is Aim.

"We have been trying for some time to consolidate some of the overlapping local taxing bodies," declared President Cermak.

"Cook county is entitled to an equitable and just share in the division of the tax dollar. As it stands today, Cook county receives only 8.3 per cent, or $1.30 from each $100 of taxes collected, without increasing taxes, give the county an added amount of revenue with which to take care of the added statutory expenditures."

The plan, as submitted by Commissioners Wheelan and Newby, sets forth that new financial obligations placed upon the county in the last decade

BURNS FATAL

MRS. JANE S. WADE.

Mrs. Jane S. Wade, 73 years old, for years a prominent figure in the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, died in Aurora yesterday of burns sustained when a celluloid comb became ignited while her hair was being dried with an electric heater. The accident happened on Jan. 18, but hopes for Mrs. Wade's recovery had been entertained until Thursday. She was the wife of Charles F. Wade, Aurora merchant. Three children and eight grandchildren survive.

ade include mother's pensions, jurors' funds, judges' incomes, hospital nursing, blind relief, industrial schools and other activities. The county tax rate, however, has remained the same.

PROFESSOR SUGGESTS PLAN

A plan similar in several respects to the measures advocated by Mr. Matthews was proposed in an address last night by Jerome Kerwin, assistant professor of political science at the University of Chicago. In outline, his suggestions follow:

1. Home rule, not only for Chicago, but for all metropolitan units.
2. Unification of government in Cook county on a federal system.
3. Adoption of the city manager form of government for Chicago.
4. "The city manager plan," Prof. Kerwin said, "is much to be preferred to such half way measures as the Silas Strawn suggestion for volunteer business experts to assist the local administration. Unpaid experts would be merely a prop for a discredited administration."

COFFIN VISITS EMMERSON AND RUMORS SPREAD

Scramble On for Cook's Public Administrator.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Springfield, Ill., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—A formal courtesy call paid Gov. Louis L. Emerson this morning by Col. Percy B. Coffin of Chicago started a stampede of speculation about the post of public administrator for Cook county.

As far back as the days when Gordon Ramsay, who held the place under Gov. Frank O. Lowden and fought to retain it until the end of his term under Gov. Len Small, the politicians agreed that the fees paid into this office were good for something like $50,000 a year. Since then, of course, they have increased substantially.

Lundin Got Job for Him.

Col. Coffin, one of the chief lieutenants of Fred Lundin, has had the post for about four years, having acquired it when Small acceded to Lundin's plan, in his anti-Thompson maneuver and took it out of the control of George F. Harding, whose relative, Gregory T. Van Meter, held it for the preceding four years.

For weeks there has been a hot scramble after Coffin's job. Two names were mentioned repeatedly. One was that of Dr. William E. Buehler, founder of the Illinois Masonic Hospital association and one of the Emerson headquarters chieftains last spring.

COOLIDGE APPOINTS CHARLES H. BRIDGES ADJUTANT GENERAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Charles H. Bridges of Whitehall, Ill., was appointed adjutant general of the army with rank of major general by President Coolidge today. Gen. Bridges has been serving as acting adjutant general since the death of Adjutant General Louis Wahl, last December.

Gen. Bridges served in the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and in the world war. He was inspector general of the 2d division of the A. E. F. in 1917 and later was detailed as assistant chief of staff to the same division. At the end of the war Gen. Bridges was assistant chief of staff of the 8th army corps. He was detailed to the adjutant general's department in 1923 and has served in that branch since that time. Born in Whitehall, Ill., in 1873, Gen. Bridges was appointed to West Point 20 years later.

The other was that of Hugh Smith, who for several years has been in charge of the secretary of state's office in Chicago for Emerson.

Kohn Plunges Into Inquiry.

Gov. Emerson left his office this afternoon to go to Decatur to attend an eightieth birthday celebration in honor of Orville E. Gorin. Therefore the statehouse was quiet, the busiest spot being the department of purchases and construction, where Director Henry H. Kohn was plunging into his long contemplated inquiry into the waterways division.

He had with him all afternoon William F. Mulvihill of Chicago, supervisor of waterway construction, whose administration is under fire in connection with the Green & Sons contract at Brandon road, a $2,500,000 piece of work that has been attacked in the courts.

SLEET STORM TIES NEW YORK TRAFFIC IN KNOT

3 Ships in Difficulties; Many Persons Hurt.

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—The storm which is playing havoc with Atlantic shipping today treated New York and the entire eastern seaboard to the worst weather of the winter. Three vessels reported themselves in difficulty, while for several hours this morning land traffic in the metropolitan area was disorganized by sleet, which turned the streets into glassed places of danger.

A dozen or more persons were injured in New York. Elevated, surface, subway, and bus lines ran from 15 minutes to an hour behind schedule throughout the rush periods. Forty passengers of the Long Island Sound steamship Georgia were transferred to the City of Lowell off New Haven harbor early this morning after the Georgia had dropped its propeller. The seagoing tug Relief put out from Norfolk, Va., today to assist the Norwegian motor ship Fernland which is wallowing six miles southeast of Bermuda with its stern frame broken and its rudder disabled.

The tug Warbler left Key West, Fla., to assist the freighter Dixiana, grounded on a reef on the south coast of Cuba. The American Danesdale, which sent out distress calls the night of Jan. 23, notified Bermuda authorities today that it expected to reach Hamilton early tomorrow morning.

27 RAILROADS PLEDGE HELP IN WAR ON SMOKE

Cooperation of the railroads in the campaign to rid the city of smoke was pledged yesterday by fifty representatives of the twenty-seven railroads which have terminals in Chicago. The officials met with Frank A. Chambers, deputy smoke inspector, in the third of a series of conferences being held to get the help of all operators of fuel burning equipment to abate the smoke pall.

In one particular instance where the smoke observers are powerless to note violations, the railroad men promised to obey the new smoke ordinance. This is the night smoking of locomotives in residential districts. The officials stated that they would employ supervisors to suppress this evil.

Out of 3,515 complaints against the railroads during the last six years for smoke violations, 2,513 arose out of faulty operation due to the crew, Mr. Chambers informed the group.

COUNTY HOPES FOR $1,400,000 ADDED REVENUE

The county board, working on its 1929 budget, added $1,400,000 yesterday to its estimate of revenues for the year. With additional cuts in requested appropriations, the commissioners reduced their anticipated deficit from $4,000,000 to $1,200,000. The budget must balance and be passed by the board before next Friday.

The estimated revenue figure was raised from $15,809,000 to $18,209,000 after Clerk Michael O'Connor reported that the latest information on revaluation gives prospects of really being taxed on a valuation of $5,000,000. Last year, the budget totaled $19,000,000. Requests for this year aggregated $21,000,000.

JUDGE RALLIES TO MEYER IN COUNCIL CONTEST

McKinlay Tells Brunker Commission Is Wrong.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Wardship Judge Donald S. McKinlay, former alderman of the 13th ward, rallied to the aid of Mayor William D. Meyer yesterday in the council contest. The judge said he and Meyer were alone among the roses and floral pieces on the mayor's inauguration night and took the highest compliment of being named as the civic safety commission over its right.

He said the civic safety was 100 per cent wrong in deeming Meyer a Thompson follower.

McKinlay's accusations that the commission is raising the religious issue were made in the 35th ward by Lawrence J. Penlon, a candidate.

Judge McKinlay, in a letter to Albert R. Brunker, executive chairman, wrote the commission he was surprised at its 18th ward action.

"Because of the strong stand taken by Meyer against most of the Thompson administration measures deemed objectionable," he said, "I present you would help him."

Headed at inauguration.

"Ald. Meyer and I were elected to the city council from adjoining wards six years ago and found ourselves acting in common on most things. We each had the experience of an inaugural night of being hissed by some of the mayor's friends who didn't like to hear the truths we mentioned that night."

"So far as I saw in six years in the council, Ald. Meyer always acted in accordance with his conscience. Moral courage is much rarer than physical courage. Meyer has both. He was one of five aldermen who, at the risk of displeasing the chief of police and the civil service commission, voted for my resolution to have Capt. Stage's dismissal reconsidered. He has stood firm for vital matters in connection with transit negotiations when nice sounding plans and arguments were advanced which would sell out the city."

"If the incumbent of an office has made good, certainly he should be preferred by nonpartisan persons to an untried man who might also prove worthy."

Miller Gets Backing.

Word came to Ald. Meyer that the organization of Andrew C. Metzger, county commissioner and Crowe-Thompson ward committeeman, endorsed Edmund A. Miller, who is being backed by the civic safety commission.

Four years ago and two years ago Metzger fought Meyer. This time the Metzger crowd and the Thompson followers were not known to be voting in a contest in view of the fact that last November Meyer was a Democratic candidate for secretary of state and carried the ward by 5,000, running 11,000 votes ahead of the Democratic ticket.

Yesterday the alderman said he had been informed that the executive committee of the Metzger-Thompson group had come out for Miller.

A statement from Mr. Brunker last night was that the commission would maintain its position in supporting Mr. Miller against Ald. Meyer.

Meyer Reviews Record.

In the council anteroom yesterday, Ald. Meyer thumbed over a bunch of newspaper clippings and vote records.

"I had," he said, "that Mr. Brunker and I have 'blindly' followed Thompson's leadership? He sure is a chameleon with the truth. The night Thompson was inaugurated, Ald. McKinlay and I took the highest compliment of being named as the civic safety commission over its right."

"I was one of a minority of five who voted to restore Stage. I voted against the Fabery matter. The records show I was one of a minority of seven who stood against the street carline contrivance. I was one of a minority of ten who backed McKinlay on traction."

Religious Issue.

The charges that the issue of religion is being injected into the aldermanic fight were made in a letter to Mr. Brunker from Lawrence J. Penlon, candidate in the 35th ward against Ald. Eugene L. Nusser, who is called "a blind follower of Thompson," by the Municipal Voters' league. Ald. Nusser is a relative of George Hittman, the Thompson-Crowe committeeman. The commission is supporting Leonard M. Rice.

Mr. Penlon wrote Mr. Brunker yesterday, saying:

"The civic safety commission has

SHERIFF IS FINED $500 FOR LIBERTY GIVEN PRISONER

Admits He Was Lax with Chicagoan.

Sheriff Sam Good of Oregon, Ogle county, Illinois, was fined $500 for contempt of court by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham yesterday after he had admitted allowing a federal prisoner in his custody to leave the Ogle county jail "about twenty times" during the serving of a sixty day sentence for violating the prohibition law. Clinton H. Myers, chief deputy sheriff, was fined $200, and Good's daughter, Mrs. Bertha Kendall, also a deputy, was fined $100 for the same offense.

Under questioning by Assistant United States District Attorney Eugene Tappay, Sheriff Good said he had allowed Barney Kessel, Chicago saloonkeeper, to have considerable freedom around the jail—freedom which included driving Deputy Sheriff Mrs. Kendall to Chicago for a day of shopping, numerous trips to the barber shop, and the occupancy of a room in the woman's quarters of the jail, which was not at all securely locked.

Calls Him a Trusty.

This freedom, Good claimed, was given Kessel because he was a trusty and because Deputy United States Marshal Thomas Smith, who took Kessel to the jail, had said, "Treat this guy right, he's a good fellow."

"But surely, Sheriff Good," Judge Wham asked him, "you knew that former Sheriff Hoffman of Cook county served a jail sentence for allowing just this sort of liberty?"

Good replied that he did.

"Yet knowing that," the court continued, "you went ahead and allowed this federal prisoner almost complete freedom?"

The reply was inaudible.

"I don't deny that I gave Kessel liberties," Good testified. "I don't deny these charges at all, except that I didn't let him out forty times like the government says; it wasn't more than half that many. That sort of thing has been done lots of times before, and I didn't think it was anything unusual to let a trusty work a little outside the jail or drive my car for me."

Under Mr. Tappay's questioning, the sheriff admitted that he had allowed Kessel to leave the jail one day ahead of the legal expiration of his sentence.

"But that was just my mistake," he said. "I figured his sentence wrong."

The deputies corroborated their chief's testimony. Myers added that he was only acting "under the sheriff's orders."

Makes Sentence a Farce.

"Such handling, or failure to handle a prisoner sent to that jail to serve a sentence makes Kessel's imprisonment a farce," Judge Wham said in giving out the fines to the three.

"One cannot excuse the action of sheriff Good by calling him a good fellow," the court said. "This is a most flagrant instance of contempt of court. I hope that this fine serves as an example to other sheriffs who have federal prisoners."

Deputy marshals sought Kessel all Thursday night and yesterday but could not locate him. Since leaving the jail on Jan. 13 he has not been heard from. When arrested he will also be compelled to face a contempt charge before Judge Wham.

Fears Tariff War Between United States and Canada

(Chicago Tribune from Tokyo.) OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 25.—A tariff war between Canada and the United States was envisioned by A. H. Darby, counsel for the Canadian council of agriculture, before the Canadian tariff board today.

Mr. Darby, who was arguing for lower tariff against United States mine machinery, feared that the suggestions being made before the United States senate committee for higher fiscal barriers against Canada might lead to demands for reprisals on Canada's part.

Under Mr. Tappay's questioning, the sheriff admitted that he had allowed Kessel to leave the jail one day ahead of the legal expiration of his sentence.

"But that was just my mistake," he said. "I figured his sentence wrong."

The deputies corroborated their chief's testimony. Myers added that he was only acting "under the sheriff's orders."

Makes Sentence a Farce.

"Such handling, or failure to handle a prisoner sent to that jail to serve a sentence makes Kessel's imprisonment a farce," Judge Wham said in giving out the fines to the three.

CALLS HANSON KILLING MERELY "UNFORTUNATE"

Right to Shoot Into Auto Claimed in Trial.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)—Hanson, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(Special.)—The killing of Hanson was merely an unfortunate, according to the state's attorney, who today charged with the case in the federal court here.

Under an earlier court order today, Shumaker was held in custody over to Sheriff W. L. Egan to be taken to the penal farm.

Judge Baltzell acted at the request of attorneys for Shumaker, who asked time in which to perfect plans for an appeal to the United States Supreme court.

Joseph Hutchinson, appearing for James M. Ogden, state's attorney general, told the court that the state had no objections.

Judge Baltzell said that Shumaker would be permitted to remain at liberty during the thirty day period under a bond of $1,000.

It is the government's contention that Shumaker had no intention of wounding Hanson but that he fired with the intention of crippling the automobile.

That Jennings, instead, crippled Hanson and blinded and ultimately killed him, was a misfortune and not a crime, according to the defense theory as expounded by Lieut. Peak.

"Your honor," Prosecutor Knowles said, "I want to show the jury that these government people are here trying to justify this thing because it happened."

Then he repeated this question: "Lieutenant, if the same thing happened to another man under the same circumstances, just where it happened on Lewiston Hill, would Jennings' shooting be as proper the next time as it was in the case of Hanson?"

The United States attorney fought hard to keep an answer to this but the record, but in the end Judge Baltzell ruled the question was proper.

Lieut. Peak hesitated for some time but finally said, in a low voice: "I would say it was unfortunate."

It has been testified that neither Jennings nor Dew displayed their firearms on the night of the shooting and that Jennings wore a blue corduroy coat with a sheepskin collar and denim overalls.

Q.—Is it proper for coast guardsmen to wear any other than regulation clothing when patrolling the roads? A.—I wouldn't say so.

Q.—Is it proper for coast guardsmen to make ambushes? A.—They don't make ambushes.

Q.—Wouldn't you call the way Dew and Jennings stationed themselves in the shooting of Hanson an ambush? A.—I would not.

SHUMAKER IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN, GONE AGAIN IN CONTEMPT TANGLE

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—(Special.)—A thirty day stay of the order sending the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, to the state penal farm to serve a ninety day sentence for contempt of court was granted by Judge Robert C. Baltzell in the United States District court today.

Under an earlier court order today, Shumaker was held in custody over to Sheriff W. L. Egan to be taken to the penal farm.

The questioning again was brought around to Jennings' right to shoot and the lieutenant said: "In this case Hanson was looked upon as a felon escaping a government officer."

and it's a special "Hot Dawg", pop sure is a wow!" then Edwin proceeded to tell about the goodness of HYDROX.

Bernard Farrell took a scientific slant at it. Alwin Aigner, 8th grade, told the story of when he was sick and told how nothing tasted as good as Hydrox. And Veith Dall wrote a dialogue. Raymond Levine, in kindergarten had his big sister write just what he told her to and Raymond gets free ice cream because his big sister did what he told her to.

HYDROX ICE CREAM FOOD VALUES

by BERNARD FARRELL, 8th Grade

The most outstanding feature in HYDROX Ice Cream, excluding its tempting flavors is its wonderful food values. It is rich in the most important vitamins mainly vitamin A and vitamin B.

It is chock full of muscle-building, body-building proteins. It is also rich in calcium which supplies the teeth and bone building materials. The pure cane sugar which it contains is instantly converted into energy.

HYDROX Ice Cream is a precaution against colds, grippe and the "flu". It is a great resistance builder, giving quick, new energy and sending rich new blood coursing through the veins. It also gives reserve strength to fight off diseases and ills which are so prevalent today.

HYDROX Ice Cream is always full rich, sweetly flavored and unimitably superior in flavor. It is the finest kind of year round health insurance.

HYDROX BECAUSE IT IS 100% PURE

by ALWIN AIGNER, 8th Grade

Few ice creams are made as pure as Hydrox, which is made with pure ingredients and in pure, clean, healthful surroundings. Every body can eat ice cream but it must be pure. Small children are given it as soon as they can eat, doctors prescribe HYDROX because it is pure.

FOOD VALUES AND HEALTH COMBINED

by VEITH DALL, John Marshall High

Mary Jane had her friends Carol and Helen over to a Sunday dinner at which HYDROX Ice Cream was served. Jane said, "I think ice cream is America's favorite dessert, especially Hydrox, don't you Carol?"

Carol—"Well I read some place that ice cream was a food, too. It contains all the nutrition and body building elements of a full meal."

Helen—"Oh yes, they feed it to patients at hospitals. I know when I was sick the nurse fed me ice cream and told me that it contains all the vitamins and builds up the patient's energy."

Father—"Doctors say that ice cream is good for a very young child because it is bone strengthening and supplies calcium to the teeth."

Mother—"When you were little, Jane, I fed it to you but we couldn't always be sure of its purity as you can be with HYDROX. I guess the pure cane sugar in it is what made you so energetic."

Mary Jane—"I didn't know a discussion of ice cream could be so interesting."

"Now children," said father, with a twinkle in his eye, "I don't suppose you want another piece of HYDROX Ice Cream?" Glad shouts decided him to have HYDROX Ice Cream often.

Letter by 6-year old RAYMOND LEVINE, Kindergarten written for him by his big sister

I have asked my sister to write this letter for me and she will write this exactly as I am saying it. I am 6 years old and I am in the Kindergarten Class until this Feb., then I'll go to first grade. I'm not so fat like some boys, so my Mama says I can have ice cream every day.

My Papa makes me go to the corner drug store where they carry HYDROX cause my Papa says HYDROX is made with pure sweet cream and milk, and the best part is the real fruit. Oes—I sure love it, and the nuts too. My Papa he also says that it is so clean at the HYDROX Plant that it wouldn't hurt me if I ate it even twice a day.

I have a little niece that is 16 months old now and when summer comes, believe me I'll see that she eats HYDROX Ice Cream too every day.

Thanks for reading this letter too. When I grow up to be a big boy my Mama and Papa are going to send me to College to become a doctor.

Suave Satire

in First Novel

by Chicagoan

Arthur Meeker Jr. Shows

Professional Skill.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"American Beauty," by Arthur

Meeker Jr. (Covici Friede).

All of the small group that makes up literature Chicago society has been waiting for some years for young

Arthur Meeker's

first novel, ever

since, to be exact,

there was presented at the Arts club a play

written by him at the age of nineteen called

"Hardy Perennial." That was

as good social criticism as a d written in a brilliant manner as, every one

must have agreed,

was ever to be hoped for from the pen of pinet.

Unfortunately the world at large was not privileged to see that bit of precocious brilliance. Occasional magazine articles have not brought his name to the wide general public that in ten minutes late for work on the morning

the postman brings its favorite popular magazine. His name emerges from limbo for most readers or is vaguely connected with the chronicling of the society life of the city in their minds. One goes into the matter of his background for one reason: that the publication of "American Beauty"

removes Arthur Meeker Jr. permanently and forever from the ranks of the glided amateurs and places him firmly and uncompromisingly among the professionals.

"American Beauty" will surprise

even the most confident of the admirers of "Hardy Perennial" for it has the most unassuming of all qualities among its assorted blessings—

the quality of being so really amusing to its readers that they would much prefer, for instance, spending the evening with it than with the most dashing of the visiting princes of the assorted waltzes that American social and economic life offer. [There still remains that joyous subject for the pen of a skilled satirist—the royal families of say, Kookuk and Oekaloosa and the kings and their offspring of the safety pin and sour pickle industries.] "American Beauty" has the "it" they are always talking about in books which means only that certain books have it all over bridge as an evening's entertainment.

And that quality is a very professional

one, usually the result of long labors in the business of writing books.

That particular "it" is something that a reader often accepts without too much questioning. He rather expects to get it—but how rarely his expectations are realized you only have to consider from experience. One quality which is obvious in "American Beauty" is the real brilliance of its conversation. It is brilliant not because there are a great many bon mots making its pages glittery, though there are, but because the bon mots issue from the lips of exactly the sort that ought to speak, but rarely do. Like Oscar Wilde heroines, Mr.

Meeker gives his characters as well as his readers a sly, satiric dig in the ribs. His characters and their attitudes

are

that they

just

fig-

THE FINAL MADNESS—WEAKENING THE NAVY AND BLUFFING THE BRITISH.

Senator Borah has proposed two things; one that the navy bill be merely an authorization that the government when it sees fit may build fifteen, or only ten, cruisers; the other that Great Britain be informed that unless the British doctrine of control of the sea be given up the United States will build a navy equal to the British and will dispute that historic pretension.

It is not wholly inconsistent with Mr. Borah's statement that it should lead in one direction to fix the inability of the United States to make good any large undertaking on the sea and in the other to a highly irritating demand on a nation which lives by sea power. The senator assumes the Rooseveltian: "Speak softly and carry a big stick." He would pick up a tall feather and roar as any lion.

Great Britain has conceded Mr. Borah's point in theory. The United States is entitled by treaty agreement to a navy the equal of Great Britain's. It hasn't because the American government hasn't wanted it and because congress would not provide for it if the administration did not want it. Congress has been asked to add a few more cruisers to the fleet. They are to be of a design particularly adapted to the peculiar requirements of American trade protection, taking into consideration the inferiority of the American naval base system to that of Great Britain.

This addition to the navy could not properly have alarmed any nation as to American intentions. It was all within the routine of a prudent regard for naval protection. It did not make the American navy dangerous. It need not have stirred a ripple on the waters if the pacifists had been in the least sensible. If the bill had been passed last spring when it represented a reduction from the seventy-one ships asked to the sixteen granted and if it had been kept out of the heavenly choir of the Kellogg treaty it would have been understood as an indication of American moderation in naval building.

Pacifist activities with characteristic maladroitness and mischief have converted an item of departmental routine into an inflammatory international episode which is already on its way to make irritation, suspicion and animosity where none would have been. The cause of international peace and understanding has been given a setback entirely unnecessary.

It has been the object of rational friends of the navy to avoid the point of controversy with the British which would require an ultimatum. It has been the purpose to proceed with a decent consideration of the other side's necessities and a prudent consideration of American requirements. If sensible agreements not demanding further one-sided sacrifices of the United States could be reached they would not be opposed.

We have wanted a navy which the British would respect. To be such it would be one quite as sufficient for American purposes as the British was for British purposes. The navy people have not declared for unquestioned supremacy on the sea. They have not threatened Great Britain. They have endeavored to avoid open opposition and have not wanted to raise questions which disturb international relations. They have thought that if the United States consulted its needs as present conditions and prospects revealed or indicated then this would be so reasonable that it could not be questioned or arouse distrust.

Mr. Borah says that the United States must get from Great Britain a promise to respect neutral rights on the sea and to acknowledge that control would not be exercised in time of war, or falling in this give Great Britain the ultimatum that this country would build the greatest navy. The rights of neutrals in war have always depended less on the international sea code and more on the exigencies and strength of the belligerents and the power of the neutrals. Claims for damages may be successful after the war but they never compensate for the actual damages done. Sumner thought Great Britain had done $100,000,000 worth of injury to the north in the civil war. The Alabama verdict brought the United States $15,500,000 in compensation.

If an international code justly protecting the rights of neutral trade should be substituted for an American navy competent to protect its rights under that code the consequences would be a complete disregard of the rights the instant a belligerent nation strong enough to ignore them found that its existence depended on doing so.

It is not unlike Mr. Borah to threaten Great Britain with the equivalent of a declaration of war if it does not concede now what would not be honored in war and to substitute this program, at once weak and menacing, for an unprovocative bill to make a needed and moderate increase in the American cruiser strength.

The United States has a naval agreement with Great Britain. All it needs do is to act upon it to bring its navy up to equality with the British navy as the treaty provides. There cannot be any controversy over that. It is agreed upon. Then the relations of the two countries would be based upon respect and not upon bluffing.

RELICS OF THE OLD FRIGATE CONSTITUTION.

From the office of Rear Admiral Andrews comes information of a new plan for financing the reconstruction and restoration of the United States frigate Constitution. Articles fashioned from the replaced timbers and metal equipment of the ship are offered to the public. The souvenirs are of the Old Ironsides tradition—signaled ornaments for American homes. Without the sentiment of contributing to a patriotic enterprise they would be popular, but the opportunity also is for the purchaser to aid in putting the frigate back in the trim of its glory days. Our monuments of a heroic past are limited. Admiral Andrews has arranged for a revival of American lore through the possession by citizens of parts of the nation's early navy.

There are seventeen cannon, worked in miniature from materials taken from the original hull of the Constitution. For thirty-five dollars this reproduction of a gun from the Constitution mounted on a gun carriage can be obtained from the office of Admiral Andrews in the navy yard, Boston. If there are no boys in the home it is a good den or parlor ornament and it won't hurt the old folks to have their patriotic enthusiasm stirred up.

For ten dollars or fifteen dollars (the circular does not state whether the difference is in point of size or design) there is a cigar box of oak, decorated with a bronze medallion and copper sheathing from the original hull. We haven't decided whether to get the cigar box or one of the two book end designs. One style of book end consists of a cannon split vertically rising out of an oak block. This is fifteen dollars, while the other type in the form of the ship's wheel cast from copper sheathing and filled with lead from magazine lining is to be had for ten dollars. For fifteen dollars there is an ink stand of original live oak timbers with a paper knife. For clubs, lodge rooms, or courts a gravel and block of original live or white oak timber labeled in bronze is available at twenty-five dollars. Walking sticks are offered at fifteen dollars, paper knives at two dollars, small trays at five, blotter holders at five, paper knives at two, and pieces of unfinished timber and copper bolts sell at various prices, the lowest of which is one dollar. For five dollars there is a plaque of original timber decorated with a bronze tablet and medallion, while knees of original oak sell for one hundred dollars and more.

A bit of the Constitution in your house will help return the Constitution to the sea.

CANADA'S LIQUOR EXPORT.

Volstead officials have failed to talk Canada out of a profitable trade with the United States. After a three-day conference in Ottawa, the commission's delegates refused to consider the petition of the delegates from the United States that cargoes of Canadian liquor be denied clearance for our ports. Shipments of ale, bourbon, beer, and Scotch will continue to leave Canadian ports under the good auspices of that government for destinations in some of which sale of these articles is punishable by life imprisonment.

In this jousting over border ethics the real reason for the Canadian position was not discussed. The value of a year's liquor export from Canada to the United States is estimated at $100,000,000. Possibly it is not that much. It may be much higher. Canada has been complaining of an unfavorable trade balance with the United States, but in tabulating the imports and exports the commerce in liquor is not included. But so long as the liquor item remains an asset in the trade balance, although it is not chalked up, the dominion has small grievance. No matter to what extent the process of liquor manufacture is perfected in this country, there will always be those apologetic Americans who prefer their liquor Canadian. This is gray which the Canadians may not be expected to relinquish.

The United States has a tariff wall against Canadian grain. It works. There is supposed to be a moral wall against grain which has been through a distillery. It doesn't work.

Editorial of the Day

OCCUPATION FOR FORMER PRESIDENTS.

[Buffalo Express.]
Every once in about as often, say once in four years, there is more or less discussion, never too serious, about what we ought to do with or for our former Presidents. We recall that one of them went to the senate and another to the house of representatives and one even took himself, if we recall right, some nice little task for the benefit of his own immediate neighborhood.

But even that does not seem to get us anywhere in the discussions referred to. We seem to have a notion that our former Presidents should be put somewhere where they can't get hurt and where they will not be in the way. The only living former President we have at the present time has, however, succeeded in keeping himself quite well occupied since his retirement from high office. But not all former Presidents can be qualified to be university professors or judges of the Supreme court of the United States. Hence the problem.

We have recently read a list of the presents which President Coolidge received in one week. Among them were a knitted flag, in which there were 115,000 stitches; a trout of Tennessee tobacco, an enormous cake of Vermont maple sugar, an ounce of fish bait, a baseball bat, a ukulele, three boxes of sheet music, a bound collection of Swedish stanzas, a pair of knitted woolen sleeping socks, a patchwork bed quilt, a gilded bust of the prince of Wales, a bottle containing a wood carving; also his own picture on a piece of tin, a barrel of apples, a bushel of popcorn, a box of honey, six jars of home made preserves, a roast of venison, a bushel of cranberries, a lot of mackerel, a ham, a cake, a ham, a crate of oranges, a brace of wild ducks, a basket of peaches, a crate of cantaloupes, a jar of peach pickle, sixteen walking sticks, twelve knives, for post-presidential whittling; three carved pipes, a knitted pair of house slippers, a pumpkin, an ear of corn and a string of red peppers.

Cases are frequent gifts; there are five or six hundred of them stored away, a few handsomely carved and some gold mounted. The favorite gifts of elderly women to the President are knitted woolen socks and knitted house slippers. Men give him canes and pipes. His living gifts would almost stock a museum, the most common being eagles, dogs and cats.

After a cursory study of that list and multiplying it by 52 for the weeks in a year, and that by four, for the number of years in a presidential term, we can conceive of an one in the United States who is so well equipped with possessions that he will be able to outdo the United States to set himself up in business as a junk dealer.

CANCER AND DIRT.

"No good looking woman ever died from a cancer on the face." This statement was made by Dr. Charles H. Mayo in an address on cancer made to the Chicago Woman's club. The statement takes in a good deal of time and territory, and with no limitations attached, may not be true. However, limited to our day and our people it is substantially correct. The statement is attention arresting and, at the same time, it packs a principle.

The principle is that cancer results from dirt. No good looking woman neglects a long continued facial blemish. She may not be able to get rid of the offending spot, but she observes it and makes some effort to have it removed if she has no means of removing it herself. The only people who die of skin cancer of the face are those who disregard the growth or ulcer for a long time and then, refusing to admit what it is, waste time and money in vain attempts at cure.

Cancer of the skin of the face is easily observed. Cancer in other parts of the body is not so easily observed. It is by the patient's neglect or by other people, and desire to avoid observation by others is a factor in the situation.

One important reason for the dangers of cancer in internal organs is the accessibility of these organs. The cancer of the liver, and even of the stomach. It cannot be seen and there may be no symptoms or no distinctive symptoms until the disorder is far advanced.

Dr. Mayo went on to say that cancer developed in dirty, neglected mouths. If the teeth were ragged, irregular and in bad order there was danger of cancer. If the person was a smoker, and soiled his mouth with tobacco, as well as irritated it, he was in danger. This statement introduced another principle or, at any rate, another angle of the first principle. The cancer of the mouth because she has her teeth straightened and ground smooth if necessary, and she keeps her mouth clean.

FEAR HIS MAIN ENEMY.

A. W. writes: I am a young man, 25 years of age, and apparently in good health. Ever since I can remember I have been abnormally self-conscious. Fear seems to be my main enemy. I always go round with that tense nervous feeling and have no control of my temper; I get angry at the least thing. When I am doing my work and a stranger watches me I blush and lose all power of concentration. If I am introduced to any one of either sex I act like a "stupid fool." I realize that I should have seen a doctor long ago. I have tried will power to cure this trouble for the last ten years and have given it up as useless. What do you suppose causes this trouble and how can it be cured?

REPLY.

There is not a case for an ordinary doctor, though you could be helped by a mental doctor. You are built according to certain plans and specifications. Fear is a prominent part of your blueprint. This should have been recognized when you were born. Your traiting should have been on that basis. Now it is too late for you to begin. The cure is training.

DIZZINESS, STAGGERING.

C. F. C. writes: Is there any cure for dizziness and staggering?
These are symptoms. The treatment depends on the cause. Dizziness may result from impacted wax in the ears. The treatment in that case is removal of the wax. Another cause is vertigo, a diseased condition of the inner ear. The remedy is to have the disease properly treated. Another cause is diabetes, arteriosclerosis (commonly called high blood pressure), constipation, Meniere's disease, and locomotor ataxia.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letter to this department must be signed with name and address of writers. DUPLICATE PAPERS.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I. Where can I obtain a copy of my first newspaper? I realize that I should have seen a doctor long ago. I have tried will power to cure this trouble for the last ten years and have given it up as useless. What do you suppose causes this trouble and how can it be cured?

1. Is a child under age, coming to the United States from Canada in 1929, subject to a head tax?
2. Will I have to take out my first papers again because of the great lapse of time?

1. As the first paper is more than seven years old, your child will be authorized to declare of intention to support naturalization value after it is more than seven years old.
2. If the writer desires to become a citizen, it will be necessary to file a new declaration of intention, and two years thereafter apply for naturalization.

The third question is not a question of naturalization or citizenship, but relates to immigration. It is fairly to say that head tax is assessed against all aliens regardless of age.
Acting District Director of Naturalization.

PERIOD OF SUPPORT.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise when North Main avenue, between Belmont and Wellington avenues, will be paved, who will pave it, and what it will be paved with? Some time ago we signed up with a private contractor who promised the street would be paved in last year, then it was rumored that the city would pave it, and still it is mud. L. A. C.

Yawp, Walter Was Right.

R. H. L.: In a letter which Walter Hines Page wrote to a friend I found something which might serve as a vindication (if such is necessary) for all those articulate souls who because of hope which columns such as yours inspire "say their say." It is this:

"A man ought to express himself, ought to live his own life, say his own little say before silence comes. The 'say' may be bad—a mere yawp, and silence might be more becoming. But the same argument would make a man dissatisfied with his own nose if it happened to be ugly. It's his nose, and he must content himself. So it's his yawp and he must let it go."

Brother Art Henning had a nice piece in Tins Tins yesterday about the Greatest-Secretary-of-the-Treasury-Since-Alexander-Hamilton and his system of cut-rate taxes. Full of ideas. Of course, it's very statistical, but not difficult at all once you get the hang of it. As we understand it, one estate, for instance, was shown a tax bill for $2,053,414.35. They thought that was a bit expensive, but offered Mr. Mellon $1,455,094.45 for it. Mr. Mellon, after thinking it over a bit, said he'd take them up. Just a simple business proposition, you see. The trouble with us is that we've never been the least business-like. We hate to haggle. But we're going to turn over a new leaf. On March 15 we happen to have an engagement with a charming lady named Mabel Melnecke and when we keep that engagement (as we will, as we will!) and she tells us we owe her ten dollars, we're going to tell her we'll give her $4.58. And if she's hardhearted—Mabel's pretty hardhearted—we're going to come right home and send Uncle Andy a postcard, saying, "Wish you were here."

Elizabeth Bowen, author of "The Hotel," has written "The Last September," a novel which is listed as the April Book-of-the-Month.

Ma Took Me to a Clothing Store.

R.H.L.: Well ma took me to a clothing store for a new suit with long pants and everything. We picked out a kinda funny colored one. The pants were pretty long for me and the waist of the pants came up way up high but the man kinda give me a little nudge up behind and say was my father a elk and they would be alright. Ma said I was just a growing boy and would outgrow me some day. Well ma, who turns me around a couple times and says, Alright, she would take the suit but we oughta have layings. So the man threw in a pair of suspenders. And he says I gotta new pair of latic layings and pa said no elk. O.K.A.C.

THIS HAPPENED ON Walter Winchell's Broadway, where the theatrical season is enjoying a fine kick-in-the-pants. "What's that new show down there with all those names in lights?" said one New Yorker to another. "Down where?" asked the other one. "Cop't too late," chirped the first, "it's closed." "Which reminds us that the Shuberts' new musical is to be called 'Boom, Boom,' and Lee and Jake hope to heaven it won't faw down."

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 26, 1864.
WASHINGTON.—Maj. Gen. McPherson of Illinois a short time ago sent in his resignation, being unwilling longer to hold a commission while he is practically prevented from discharging the duties it imposes on him. The resignation was not accepted, but he has been ordered to report for duty to Gen. Banks at New Orleans. A mulatto body servant of Jeff Davis, arrived here via Fort Monroe. He says that extreme distress for food existed at Richmond and that Jeff Davis is in the greatest despondency. Pemberton also says that Davis told him that all old and infirm slaves taken from Davis' Briarfield plantation were instantly put to death by the federals, and the other seized slaves sent to Island No. 10, to be sold into Cuba at the end of the war. CHICAGO.—J. E. Miller and Miss Anna L. Woodford, daughter of O. F. Woodford, were married on Jan. 21 by the Rev. Arthur Swazey, General Peckham of Verona, N. Y., were married at Richmond on Jan. 20 by the Rev. B. Clark.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 26, 1899.
WASHINGTON.—News of the serious situation in the Philippines brought the kinkers in the senate to their senses and they agreed to take a vote on ratification of the treaty of peace with Spain on Feb. 6. It is estimated that advances have been received from Manila that Aguinaldo has served what is termed an ultimatum on Gen. Otta. It is hinted the paper demands in positive terms that no more American warships be sent to the Philippine islands and no further attempt be made to land troops there. CHICAGO.—By the laying on of hands of seven bishops the Rev. Sam C. Edmond was consecrated Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church. The imposing ceremony took place in St. Peter's church, 1737 Belmont avenue.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 26, 1919.
CHICAGO.—A mass of evidence was gathered which points conclusively to the theory that Miss Josephine McDonald, 328 Barry avenue, was the victim of an automobile speed maniac who threw her living body into a weed patch near the lake shore and Erie street within 45 minutes after he had struck her at Clark street and Barry avenue. PARIS.—The general peace council of the allies took action aiming to prevent all wars in the future and to punish those who were responsible for the world-wide disaster of the last four years. The council unanimously adopted the program for a world league of nations. The constitution of this league will be framed by a special committee composed of members of all the associated governments. The league shall be open to every civilized nation which can be relied on to promote its objects. Great Britain and France had announced previously that the central executive remain outside the league until they have shown reform which would entitle them to entrance. A commission of two representatives from each of the five great powers and five representatives elected by the other powers is to be appointed to report on the responsibility of the authors of the war. President Wilson made the principal address in support of the league. NEW YORK.—Marjorie Moreland, who was the fifth wife of Nat Goodwin, is now the bride of Lieut. Ray Gilson. They were married on Jan. 20. This is her third marriage.

TRANSFERRED TO THE PARLOR.

Winthrop, Mass., Jan. 24.—The cartoon entitled "Dirty Stories" depicting what Mr. McCutcheon is unfamiliar with conditions today. Today very seldom does any one hear a dirty story in the smoking compartment of any first class train. The facts are if anybody starts one the gentlemen leave and the teller talks to himself. This from one who knows. H. D. LINGSTON.

ICE BIKES IN THE COUNTRY.

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 25.—I am fond of ice skating and so are hundreds of other people who live out in the country. Can we enjoy skating on the ponds and artificial lakes in the forest preserves? No. The county board can afford to hire a man in summer and pay him five dollars a day to pick up papers, etc. Why does it not hire some one to clear the snow from the ice in the winter time, and let us enjoy the skating like the people do in Chicago? Surely it would not cost so much to have a man doing this for the short period that we have skating. A COUNTRY SKATER.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

THE COLLISION.

Curtis with difficulty kept himself from telling Cynthia that he thought she was adorable. He had learned from experience to be wary. "I think," he said gravely, "you are right about your sense of humor. It is apt to dominate your other emotions."

"You are!" she said, snatching her hand away. "We are both doing pretty well. Let's talk of something sensible."

"But I want to be more than a friend. You must believe me, Cynthia, when I tell you that I am in love with you."

"You are not!" she said almost savagely. "I won't have it. Do you understand? It—it would just spoil everything!"

"I love you, Barney, and I do not blame you in the least."

"But, my dearest child, that is absurd. Unless there is some one else."

"Not as far as I am concerned."

"I don't want to be won," she said, and her voice sounded strangely and unchildlike. "I just want to be at home," and from the sudden change in her face he knew she was crying.

"I don't understand, I—" That sentence was never finished. Several dark objects loomed in the road immediately ahead, and it was only with quick application of the emergency brake that he got his car stopped in time to avoid trouble.

"There's been an accident!" cried Cynthia, peering through the blurred glass of the windshield. "There's an overturned car, and a man lying in the ditch."

"I tried to detain her, but she had already flung open the door and was stepping out. By the time he got out and followed her, she was what he feared, the gray bulk of the Freer limousine half over the bank, and another smaller car wedged in between the telephone pole and the house. Lying half in and half out of the ditch and quite unconscious was a chauffeur in livery whom he supposed was Iver McGurk.

"I don't know," she said, and he looked at her with a mixture of surprise and indignation. "I don't know," she said, and he looked at her with a mixture of surprise and indignation.

Bronte Relics Back in Native English Village

Recalling Literary Life of Famous Sisters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LEEDS, Jan. 25.—A fine lined box has just returned to England from America carrying with it one of England's greatest literary heritages. As a result of the generosity of the late Henry Houston Bonnell, Philadelphia author, many of the choicest relics of the famous Bronte sisters are now being housed in the village of Haworth, the home of the Bronte family.

Among the first editions of "Jane Eyre" are many in their original bindings with advertisements. Other "firsts" are of "Shirley," "The Tenant of Wildfell Hall," and "Wuthering Heights." Due to the controversy over its authorship, the last is particularly prized in its first editions. Only one other perfect copy of the book is known to exist outside the collection returned from America.

There is a fascinating copy of the Bronte sisters' first book which was dedicated to Ebenezer Elliott, "the corn law rhymist" of Sheffield. It was the copy presented to the latter by the sisters and is a first edition dated 1846. Poetry predominates among the manuscripts, but there also is much prose, the latter including what is believed to be Charlotte's first work. Among these relics is a childhood effort which begins, "There was once a little girl and her name was Anne."

Other precious souvenirs of the famous sisters include Emily's rosewood writing desk containing letters, receipts, bills, notes, as well as newspaper clippings of the contemporary reviews of "Wuthering Heights," all just as they were left by her.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question asked for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your questions to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune, For today's question: Miss Cecilia Hahn, 5916 Grace street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you think you could be absolutely happy if you were rich?

The Answer.

Miss Marie Christensen, Aurora, Ill. stenographer—I should certainly hope so. If one were rich one could follow out any lines that one would like. I would follow my inclination to take up music, especially singing. I did take vocal lessons, but I couldn't keep it up, because of the cost.

Harry Faber, 405 North Central Park avenue, salesman—Yes, I could do the things I have always wanted to do. One of them is writing. Writing does not require money, but it requires time, and what is more important, it requires the ability to write. They say that writers have written masterpieces on an empty stomach—then the greater the necessity for a comfortable amount of wealth.

Mrs. Elizabeth Todd, 1423 Jonquil terrace, housewife—No, sir. I do not want to be rich—not unless I earn the money myself. To sign checks, without thought; there is nothing in that. I like to plan, struggle, and save for something that I really want, keeping my mind unwaveringly on that one object. My hobby now is etching, and when I see one I want I can give up anything until that picture is mine.

J. L. Carlson, 1728 Wilson avenue, accountant—No I am sure I wouldn't be, because I think that happiness depends on one's ability to appreciate the good things of life, like the sciences, the arts, and music. Money may buy these things, but it cannot buy the essential element that makes them personally valuable.

Mrs. Abraham Bollitzer, Broadview housewife—I suppose I would be, if I had it too. I ought to be happy if one were well situated so that one could spend any reasonable sum and it wouldn't be missed.

Hoosier Salon Opens for Patrons Tonight; Monday for Public

The fifth annual exhibit of the work of Indiana artists by the Hoosier Salon Patrons association will open tonight at the Marshall Field gallery with a reception and pre-view to which artist members, patrons, press, donors, and special guests have been invited.

Monday morning the salon will be opened to the public. There the pictures may be viewed until Feb. 11.

The Hoosier salon was instituted five years ago by Mrs. C. B. King and John T. McCutcheon with the three-fold idea of making Chicago an art center for the middle west, encouraging the art colonies of Indiana, and educating the American public in appreciation of American art.

"This exhibit really is national in scope," Mrs. King said yesterday. "We have exhibitors from Seattle, New York, California, New Mexico, and American colonies in Europe, as well as Indiana and the middle west."

She explained that rules for membership and exhibition in the salon association required that the artist have been born in Indiana, that he had received his early art training there, that he had lived there at least five years, or was definitely identified with one of the existing Indiana art colonies.

The association was named for the original Hoosier group, composed of four Indiana artists, who went abroad together to study and returned to their home state, each to instruct art students of his own locality. Of these four men only one, William Forsyth, still is living. The others, Theodore Steele, Otto Starke, and J. Otis Adams, all have died since the first Hoosier salon was held here five years ago.

Prizes totaling $5,455 will be awarded at the pre-view tonight by Mr. McCutcheon. Mrs. King said that most of all of the prize money given to artists by this organization has been used for further study. She said they now have 16 artists studying at the Art Institute here.

Approximately 300 pictures will be on display and a large number of visitors are expected to view the exhibit. Last year more than 65,000 persons visited the salon.

John C. Shaffer is president of the association. Mrs. King is chairman, and this year's jury of awards and admittance includes Oscar E. Berninghaus, Oskar Gros, John Spelman, Albin Polasek, Miss Anna Renee Koen, and E. Martin Hennings.

Luncheon, teas, and lectures will be held each day in connection with the exhibit by various women's clubs and other interested organizations.

Social Service Court Is Urged for Chicagoans

Help After Judgment Is Advocated.

Establishment of a social welfare court system in Chicago was suggested yesterday to the Chicago Council of Social Agencies at its annual meeting at the Palmer house. Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of that organization, called the juvenile, boys', moral, and domestic relations courts as samples of specialized tribunals.

"The conception and establishment of such a municipal court system with its specialized branches was a significant departure in the direction of recognizing the vital part the courts play in the welfare machinery," he said. "But the development is incomplete."

"There is needed, first, a social welfare court system with social welfare judicial supervision, under which the treatment of the various social problems will be assigned for expert consideration. The social welfare court would consider the type of cases now considered by special courts."

"Second, there is needed a qualified social work service to assist the judge in diagnosis and to be responsible for 'after court treatment.'"

"Such a court system becomes a facility for the diagnosis and treatment of persons who need patient and understanding guidance long after the payment of debts, and is in addition not important to give immediate consideration to a plan for the completion of a social welfare court system as the further development of our special but separate beginning in the Circuit, County and Municipal courts."

Dr. Arthur J. Todd of the department of sociology, Northwestern university, told those at the meeting: "After all, mankind is something more than a glandular system, or a machine, although some believe that mankind isn't even that. It is no wonder that the younger social workers become muddled and say, 'If that's all there is to mankind, then mankind isn't worth doing social work for.'"

"After a study of modern scientific writings, I have come to the conclusion that modernism is passé. Social work is an expression of love made more efficient by a genuine technique. I don't care how enthusiastic we may become if we do not lose the religious concept of man, and not become blind leaders of the blind, leading us all in the ditch."

Edward L. Ryerson Jr. was re-elected president. New officers are Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, vice president; Mary E. Murphy, secretary, and H. O. Edmunds, treasurer.

Those at the speakers' table included Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university; Dr. Frederick C. Woodward, acting president of the University of Chicago; the Rev. Frederick Biedendorn, dean of Loyola university; Judge Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal court; Dr. Frank R. Morton, president of the Chicago Medical society; John R. Nichols, president of the Chicago Church federation; and others.

The Chicago Council of Social Agencies is made up of a membership of 178 social work organizations in Chicago. During 1928, Mr. Reynolds reported, 104 of the agencies made 149,725 clearings of cases through the social exchange service of the organization.

Marion Claire Will Sing for Charity in Lake Forest

Marion Claire, lyric soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company, will sing at a concert to be given Feb. 2 at the Deerpath theater, Lake Forest, under the auspices of the Lake Forest Kiwanis club for the benefit of the Lake Forest orphanage, according to an announcement last night. Miss Claire is herself a Lake Forest girl. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wright Cook of that suburb.

NEW YORK SOCIETY PRESENTS PAGEANT OF NAPOLEONIC DAYS

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Social New York turned its back on present day America tonight to live for ten hours amid the scenes of ceremony that marked the late eighteenth century and the early nineteenth century France when Napoleon I. ruled.

Queens and court ladies, soldiers and peasants moved through the Hotel Astor at the Beaux Arts ball, the high light of a season's gaiety.

Inside the hotel the three ballrooms were decorated to represent the architecture of the Napoleonic period. The largest of these, the "Salle d'Honneur," was ornamented in a manner befitting the coronation of an emperor.

The climax came when Napoleon and Josephine, represented by Philip A. Cusachs and Ethel Barrymore, crowned emperor and empress of France, received the king and queen of Sicily and Holland and the marshals of France. Miss Barrymore wore a costume which was an exact reproduction of the one worn by Josephine on the historical occasion. A series of tableaux and ballets completed the episode.

Probably several seasons will go by before it is included in the cellist's general repertoire. Probably another race of cellists will have to be trained who, like Mr. Wallenstein, are able to cope with its enormous difficulties and make them sound easy. Yet with all the pitfalls it places in the path of the unwary, it is never in whole or in part a piece merely for the glittering virtuoso. Mr. Stock is altogether too much of a musician for that. Brilliant as it is, he never for a moment loses sight of the dignity with which it begins and which pervades it throughout.

And Mr. Wallenstein gave the performance of his life. Never did cellist have a finer, more persuasive tone than his during the sustained melody of the second movement, or become more imposing than during the beginning of the first, or more flamingly unashamed or relishing than during the Spanish dance of the third. He had a great composition in front of him, and he reacted by giving it a great performance.

For the rest of the program there was another new piece. "For the Day of the First Snow in Japan," by D. E. Inghelbrecht, a work suggesting atmosphere and water colors, but considerably too long for its purpose, also Brahms' Third Symphony, and the Love Scene from Richard Strauss' "Feuerstein." It will all be heard again tonight.

The guitar as a solo device had its turn at Orchestra Hall last night, when Pasquale Taraffo of Genoa, Italy, rated as one of the world's leading exponents of the instrument, appeared in a recital. He was not an other guitar; it had extra bass strings and it rested on a pedestal which presumably also acted as a sound amplifier.

It was an interesting variant on the customary recital. Mr. Taraffo is not only an agile executant but he is able to extract a number of different but unvaryingly pleasant tones from his guitar, harkened only by the fact that all of them sounded somewhat thin in the vast expanse of Orchestra Hall. There were no programs, to compensate for which fact the numbers were announced in order from the stage. Just what the names were, however, remained an insoluble mystery to those who were any distance from the stage.

Arthur W. Jones Is Elected Potentate Medinah Temple

Arthur W. Jones was elected potentate of Medinah Temple at the annual meeting of the temple last night.

The other officers are: Albert H. Rook, chief rabbi; Ralph H. Wheeler, assistant rabbi; U. J. Herrmann, high priest and prophet; Hydo W. Perce, oriental guide; Robert M. Johnson, treasurer, and Samuel H. Smith, recorder.

The officers were installed by Frank C. Roundy, past imperial potentate, Shriners of North America. Annual reports showed 12,544 members, continuing Medinah Temple as the largest of the 200 in North America. Potentate Jones directed the chorus in the Oriental band for many years and organized the Chanters in 1920. He succeeded Edward H. Thomas, retiring potentate.

Stock Conducts as Orchestra Plays His Music

Cello Concerto Honors One of His Colleagues.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

At last there is a concerto for cello which speaks the modern language of music. Frederick Stock composed it. He started it last June and finished it on New Year's day, meanwhile placing upon it a dedication to Alfred Wallenstein, the greatly esteemed first cellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Mr. Wallenstein took it away and learned it, and yesterday afternoon at Orchestra Hall Mr. Stock conducted and Mr. Wallenstein played its first performance on any stage.

There is less importance in the fact that the work is modern; though the cello concerto has needed a piece of the sort these many years, than that it is his. Mr. Stock is yet to be detected in the act of writing down a commonplace or unimportant composition, and in this concerto he has done some of the finest work of his career. As a musical structure, it is large; as to its contents, it is noble and whimsical, suave and brilliant, and ingratiating at all times.

Probably several seasons will go by before it is included in the cellist's general repertoire. Probably another race of cellists will have to be trained who, like Mr. Wallenstein, are able to cope with its enormous difficulties and make them sound easy. Yet with all the pitfalls it places in the path of the unwary, it is never in whole or in part a piece merely for the glittering virtuoso. Mr. Stock is altogether too much of a musician for that. Brilliant as it is, he never for a moment loses sight of the dignity with which it begins and which pervades it throughout.

Chinese Art Exhibit Reflects Pride and Humor of Craftsmen

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club has for its current exhibit a most interesting and curious collection of early Chinese art. It is loaned by Mr. C. T. Lo, who has been similarly generous to the club in previous years. This present exhibit, however, surpasses its predecessors. It has modern Chinese as well as ancient mystery, two doors that will open to the key of our appreciation.

In the first room are several large pieces. The sculpture and carved reliefs have been installed there. A most amusing figure is that of the little god who dances for two things, one for the joy of his youth—and that dance he indulges in on a pat of butter—the other dance he has to admit has slipped his memory, but at all events in the little statuette he is depicted dancing merrily on the butter.

In the second room there are a number of cases. The exquisite composition in the three color Blauquit with their use of green and ochre and yellow are delightful. This pottery dates from the Kang Hsi period, 1662-1722. Another case is filled with figures and little bowls and vases in that marvelous blue so aptly named "Chinese." In another case are tiny animals and persons in bronze. Other fascinating bronzes are found in the groups of ornaments which probably in earlier times were worn as a part of the costume, on hats and cloaks and belts for decoration.

Fresh and youthful, and a little shy, are the slender, graceful women figures which compose the group "Court Ladies Enjoying the Dance." They are as charming and finished as though they had stepped from a 1929 bandbox and had not seen centuries glide over their heads since their discovery in A. D. 618.

The horse with raised hind foot, scratching himself, is a lesson to a recent artist who perpetuated the "man scratching himself" also shown at the Arts club. The horse has the greater dignity and achieves his end with no less of self-respect. The pottery work is unique, and the terra cotta ox cart from the Wei dynasty, fifth to sixth century, is the romantic fore-runner of the prairie schooners that dared America's pioneer wildernesses.

A number of the ladies from the Wei dynasty have found homes here. Four are marked "Sold." The reason is not far to seek. They are clever, amusing and interesting, and extremely modern in spite of their age. The exhibition will continue another week.

Now's Your Chance to Pass On Ideas on Child Training

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
Mrs. Bevans has prepared two booklets, one on "Prayers and Graces for Children" and another called "Books to be Read to the Children, or by Them," which will be sent free on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

There was not space yesterday to finish the subject of Contributors' Week. It does not really matter what form your contribution takes—it may be easier for you to write it as a letter to me. I certainly could ask nothing better than that. But there are two things that do matter. First, its aim must be constructive—to help other mothers. And, second, it must not be mere theorizing. It must have its origin in experience. Aside from these two restrictions the field is unlimited.

As to the matter of length—say what you have to say in about the same amount of space that is usually given to a daily article. You can figure it out by counting the words. Writing on one side of the paper only does make reading a little easier.

Only six articles will be used out of those received. At least, that is my present intention. But actually I see myself tearing my hair trying to decide which articles shall appear and then ending by having a second Contributors' Week. Since this is our first adventure in this direction we might set a time limit—have your communication posted ten days from today.

The subject you write about need not be a tremendous one. Don't cast aside an experience or conclusion because you think it isn't of earth-shaking importance. The little things of every day life with children often loom as large as those that we think of as fundamentals.

From the time my contributors send in their articles until they appear in the paper it will be about a month. If possible, the announcement will be made a few days ahead of time.

ITALY ENTERS BIG NAVY RACE WITH POWERS

Votes to Begin Formidable Building Program.

BY DAVID DARRAH

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
ROME, Jan. 25.—President Benito Mussolini and his council of ministers, including also Augusto Turati, secretary of the Fascist party, summoned four admirals to a meeting of the council today. After a four hour session they decided on a formidable naval building program. This program, it is announced, is designed to bring the Italian navy up to proportional strength with the other naval powers and keep the Mediterranean open.

The new building plans for the Italian navy comprise two new 15,000 ton cruisers, two scout ships of the Condottiere type, four submarine chasers, and five submarines. It is announced that the construction costs of the ships, which will be laid down next June, will be covered in the regular naval budget.

Spends $50,000,000 This Year.
This year's navy budget calls for a $50,000,000 outlay, which is a $450,000 increase over last year.
At today's long session the Italian naval construction program from 1935 to 1939 was reviewed, and future building necessities for a period of years were reviewed. Admiral Sirani, under secretary of the navy; Admiral Thaon di Revel, Admiral Acron, and Admiral Bernali were present.

Today's session is regarded here as a departure of maximum importance from Italy's naval policy, and especially stresses the clash of interests between Italy and France in Mediterranean waters.

Today's session is regarded here as a departure of maximum importance from Italy's naval policy, and especially stresses the clash of interests between Italy and France in Mediterranean waters. The Italian building program for the last five years, which was reviewed and overhauled by the council of ministers and admirals today, called for the laying down during the period between 1928 and 1932 of five cruisers, twenty destroyers and twenty submarines. This program has been carried out almost in detail, according to an announcement by Admiral Sirani before the chamber of deputies on March 15 of last year.

Submarine War Considered.
The nature of the new policy to be constructed emphasizes the Italian admiral's belief that future naval battles in the Mediterranean at least will consist of submarine action and of running fights of pursuit or retreat by lighter units.

Last month a new 800 ton submarine of the latest type, named "Pier Capponi," was put through trials at Taranto, and succeeded in successfully plunging to a depth of 57 meters (192 feet). The ship is said to be one of the most efficient submarines afloat.

Newspapers today approve the building plans. Gloire d'Italie says: "The new construction program for cruisers is no surprise, in view of the armament race between all nations, and this, in spite of the Geneva protocol, the spirit of Locarno, and the Kellogg peace pact. Italy's building program follows, but does not precede, those of France, England, and the United States in developing and reinforcing their marine arm."

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS EXHIBIT MODEL PLANES

Students in a class of aeronautics at Roosevelt high school held an exhibit of model airplanes yesterday at the school. The 15 miniature airplanes included models of the Spirit of St. Louis and the Bremen.

Bernard B. Bulawa, who was a French war flyer, is instructor of this class, which is offered as part of the school's curriculum this year for the first time.

The final examination of this class requires each student to make a complete design of an airplane of some commercial type, and to build a model of this airplane which will fly.

The obligation of leadership is to lead. At the Show, as elsewhere, AC outranks its field.

MICHIGAN BILL ASKS PRISON FOR SECOND DRY LAW OFFENDERS

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Another outburst of prohibition zeal such as that which two years ago placed on Michigan's statute books a measure making possible life terms for dry law offenses, was manifested in the lower house today, despite the measure seeks at the same time to soften the harshness of the existing "life for pint" law. Rep. Alex Cuthbertson of Flint introduced a bill providing mandatory prison sentences for all second offense prohibition law violators and fixing the minimum fine for first offenders at $500.

While the Cuthbertson measure has not been openly fathered by the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, it is believed the league will endorse the principles embodied in it. It stiffens other penalties for violators of the liquor law. For first offenses a fine of from $500 to $2,000 could be imposed, with a prison sentence of from one to two years as an alternative "or in addition."

Fourth offenders, however, who, under the present habitual criminal section of the crime code, draw mandatory life imprisonment, could be required to serve only from ten to fifteen years under the measure, this being the only instance in which present penalties are reduced under the bill's terms.

NEW FIGHT OPENS TO UNSEAT REBEL KING OF AFGHANS

MOSCOW, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Hambullah Khan is fighting desperately to retain the throne of Afghanistan, which, as Bacha Sakao, the water boy, he seized only about a week ago. The Jalalabad tribes already have administered one stinging defeat to his forces and now are within 20 miles of Kabul, the capital.

Hambullah had sent an advance guard to meet the Jalalabad tribes. They fought a pitched battle near the summit of Khakijavar and the new king's forces fled precipitantly toward Kabul.

The main Jalalabad force has reached Jagdalk, 30 miles from Kabul on one of the main routes. They have sent out a flanking column, which attacked Jebulera and created a new menace to the north of the capital.

AIMEE TELLS HER KIDNAPING STORY AGAIN TODAY

Will Face Legislative Investigation.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson will tell the legislators of California about her famous forty day disappearance from Los Angeles when she appears tomorrow as chief witness before a special legislative committee here.

While the purpose of the hearing is to determine whether Superior Judge Carlos Hardy of Los Angeles county acted unethically in accepting a $2,500 check from Mrs. McPherson while her story was under grand jury scrutiny, the proceedings may result in reopening the entire case.

Subpoena Ten Others.
The legislators today ordered subpoenas for ten persons besides Mrs. McPherson and the judge and requested a haul of documents from court archives.

Among the documents subpoenaed were: The $2,500 check, which Mrs. McPherson explained as "a good will offering" to Judge Hardy, and which the latter explained as "a recognition of past favors tendered to Mrs. McPherson, but in a sense a payment for legal service rendered."

Letters in Evidence.
Letters exchanged between Judge Hardy and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Ziff, who told conflicting stories of having been hired to give the impression that she was the woman who had spent a week at Carmel-by-the-Sea, Cal., with Mrs. McPherson's radio chief, Kenneth Ormiston. During Mrs. McPherson's trial here in 1926 Mrs. McPherson was accused of having been Ormiston's companion.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson and her former business manager, stated in a long distant telephone conversation from Seattle today that she would not appear as a witness. Mother and daughter are now estranged.

Manikins will promenade in the Tea room today for the noon hours, starting at 12:45 o'clock

TRIBUNE HOLDS SILVER SKATE PRELIMINARIES TODAY

BOYS TO FACE
GARFIELD PARK
TEST AT 2 P. M.

Senior Derby, Girls' Events Tomorrow.

Thanks for today's trials in the Silver Skates Derby appear on Pages 1 and 2.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
The Tribune's thirteenth annual Silver Skates Derby open today at Garfield park with preliminary heats for the boys' juvenile and boys' junior events. Western Skating association officials say the meet has attracted the largest entry in the history of the sport.

Trials will start promptly at 2 o'clock. No numbers will be issued to contestants after 1:30. Clerks will be on hand to issue the numbers before noon. An eight lap track, 220 feet to the circuit, will be used. The number to qualify in each heat will be determined by Eddie Mahike, chief clerk of the course, before the trials are held. The number of preliminary and semifinal heats to reduce the field to an average number for the grand semifinals and finals to follow will depend upon the number of boys who report for their numbers.

Males Arranges Heats.
In the juvenile race for boys under 14 years, 104 entries were received. A field of 90 has registered for the boys' junior. Fifty per cent of the only number of officials will have a few minutes. The heats are being arranged by Mahike and the fastest skaters will be placed in different trials. Mahike also will make every effort to have contestants from the same or similar out of the preliminary heats. As the elimination advances, however, representatives of the same club and some of the stars will be in the same semifinals.

In general, dark horses are almost certain to appear. Skaters have been training for today's races since the opening of the season last month. The events developed in Tribune news some of today's starters may be state, national or international champions. Others may earn places in American Olympic teams. Every boy who faces the starter will be given a bronze medal, a souvenir of the event. When the youngsters glide to the starting line they will be given instructions by Ed. John V. Cline, a veteran of the world war and one of Chicago's best skaters. Judge Walter E. Mahike, one of the greatest football players who ever wore the maroon of Chicago and who is now advisory coach at Carnegie Tech, will be chief of the finish.

Cold Weather Predicted.
Edmund J. Fischer, superintendent of the board of education playgrounds, said that Kaitze, former president of the Western Skating association, will be the starter. Other officials will be prominent in local, state and national skating circles. Lieut. Walter E. Mahike, former police detail, while Dr. J. H. Schults, director of the west park board will be in charge of the honorary officials who will be on hand tomorrow.

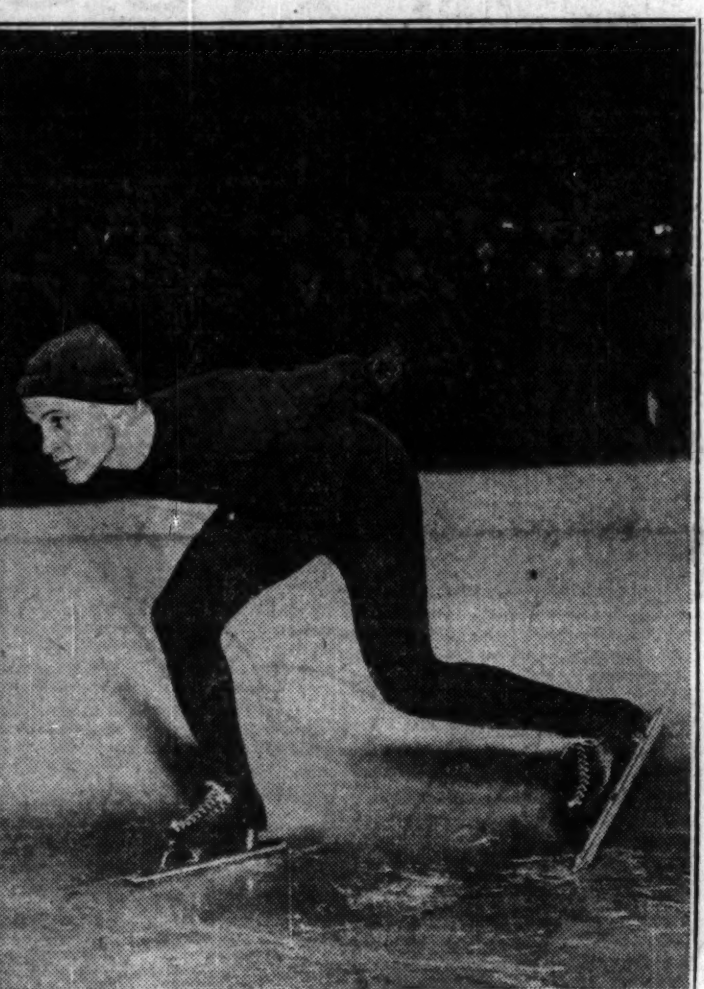

Cold weather predicted for two days, but the ice at Garfield park is in good condition. Skaters are urged to wear their skates sharpened in time to negotiate the turns without slipping. Contestants also are requested to listen to the calls of the clerk of the course. Every boy who receives a number will have the number of his skates on the numerals by the clerk. All they will have to do is listen to the calls and respond promptly when the number of their skates are shouted by the clerk.

Edmund J. H. Schults, director of the west parks, yesterday announced the ice in splendid condition. Schults has been supervising the skaters who have been scraping the ice, placing benches and tables in the rink.

6,000 to See Notre Dame and Northwestern Clash Tonight

BY HARLAND ROHM.
Chicago and Ohio State basketball teams play at Columbus this afternoon in the only Western conference game on the schedule, and tonight Northwestern's Wildcats battle one of their greatest rivals, Notre Dame, at Patten gym.

Northwestern won the first of the two game series at Notre Dame, 18 to 14, but despite that result they're no more than an even bet tonight and hardly that. Since that first game Notre Dame has come on fast, developing a lot of scoring power, which they lacked early in the season. The Ramblers walked off Pennsylvania, eastern intercollegiate champions, a few nights ago and beat Michigan State, conquerors of Michigan, 29 to 24.

Northwestern will be forced to play without Rut Walter, center and key of the Purple offense, who is resting torn tendons in his left knee, the result of a spill under the basket in the Iowa game. Walter probably will be permitted to get out of bed to watch the game, but it is certain he won't play.

Bert Riel to Play.
Walter's absence will force a shift in the Purple lineup, sending Russell Berghorn, who has been playing forward, to center. Bert Riel will take his place at forward, while the other positions will remain the same. Capt. Hal Gleichmann at the other forward and Harold Schultz and Frank Marshall at guards.

Notre Dame's lineup also will be changed from the first game, due to Colrick's recovery from a football injury. He'll jump center with Capt. Crowe, little but a deadly basket shot, and Jacky at forwards, and Smith and Donovan at guards.

Northwestern has won the last two games from the South Bend team, and tonight's game recalls one of the greatest basketball battles in college history last year. Notre Dame led the last few minutes, when Capt. Waldo Fisher of Northwestern was put out of the game on four fouls, his last chance of beating Notre Dame in three years of competition gone. SMITH, DUDLEY BURN UP TEXAS COURSE WITH 69S Lead Field of 141 Over Wintery Links.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Two new Ryder cup team nominees, Horton Smith and Ed Dudley, led a strong field of 141 starters at the end of the first round of the eighth annual Texas open championship, played over the Brackenridge Park course today. Both scored 69, two under par. A drop in the temperature from 85 yesterday to 32 today kept some of the scores from being as low as expected. It was uncomfortably cold.

Dudley and Smith finished only one stroke ahead of two other homebreds, Danny Williams of Shackamaxon, and Frank Walsh of Appleton, Wis. Five players equaled par of 71, one of them being Willie Maguire of Houston, who played the first nine in 31.

Cruickshank Shoots 72.
Former winners of the title were higher. Bobby Cruickshank had a 72. Joe Kirkwood made a 74 with three bad holes. The defending champion, Bill Mehlhorn, required 75. Harry Cooper, who was runner up last year, scored 78.

Smith's 69 included a 6 on the sixteenth where he skidded over the green on his second shot and put his bird in a trap. Dudley had five birdies in seven holes. He missed short putts for pars on two holes.

The cards of the leaders:

Dudley	69	435	435-63
Smith	69	434	434-63-64
Williams	72	444	444-66-69
Smith	72	444	444-65-69

Williams went out in 34. The Jersey player's 70 included a pair of three putts greens, the fourth and tenth. Dan played consistent golf on all the other holes and picked up birdies on three long holes. His card:

Out	434	444	433-64
In	444	444	443-36-70

Walsh was over par twice, when he took 18 on holes of 430 and 430 yards. He had three birdies two of them on par 5 holes. His card:

Out	434	444	433-65
In	444	444	433-35-70

Maguire struck off six birdies on the first eight holes. He went out in 31 with three putts on the seventh and missed a net footer on the ninth.

LOTT LOSES IN SEMI-FINAL OF CANADIAN MEET
MONTREAL, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—George Lott of Chicago, a member of the American Davis cup team and defending titleholder in the Canadian indoor tennis championships, was eliminated in the semi-final round of the tournament today by J. Albert Hall of Montreal, N. J. The scores were 7-5, 6-4, 6-4. Lott will meet William Crocker of Montreal, Canadian Davis cup star, in the final round tomorrow. Crocker defeated Fritz Mercier of Bethlehem, Pa., 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 in the other semi-final.

Michigan Mat Team Swamps State, 26-0
Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Michigan completely overwhelmed Michigan State in a dual wrestling meet here tonight. The Wolverines won every bout to pile up a 26 to 0 advantage. Kallies, Wolverine lightweight, scored the only fall.

Lieb to Return to Notre Dame as Grid Aid

Madison, Wis., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Tom Lieb, line coach at the University of Wisconsin since 1926, has severed his connection with Badger football. He announced today he will return to Notre Dame, his alma mater, as assistant to Coach Knute Rockne next fall.

Lieb is generally considered one of the best linemen ever developed by Rockne. He played tackle for three years. In 1921 his left leg was broken in a game with Purdue.

Lieb scored Notre Dame last year for Wisconsin. He was on the ground when Notre Dame defeated Loyola of New Orleans by a 12 to 6 score. He took back enough information to Madison to permit the Cardinals to defeat Notre Dame, 22 to 6. Rockne considers Lieb one of the smartest forwards he ever developed. It is understood Lieb will report at Notre Dame for spring football practice.

Commy and Party Race South as Cold Wave Arrives

Charles A. Comiskey, president and owner of the White Sox, yesterday morning read the news of the then impending cold wave, summoned his chauffeur and advised him that plans for a Florida trip had been moved up precipitately.

Within an hour the chauffeur had loaded Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barry and the Sox secretary, Harry Grabner, into the car with Mr. Comiskey and headed south from the bleak atmosphere of a ball park in winter.

Mr. Grabner will proceed to Miami to join Mrs. Grabner, who is there recuperating from an operation. The remainder of the party will tour Florida, then go to Cuba for a brief visit.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.
DEAR WAKE: In the middle '40s the cattle or, as we know them, the stockyards, were located at Madison and Michigan avenue. On account of the growth of the city it was necessary to move them and, in 1848, they were located just south of Madison street and east of Ashland avenue.

The old Bull's Head tavern was built the same year on the southeast corner of Madison and Ogden, later site of the Washington home. The tavern housed drovers and buyers of cattle. It was a three story building of special construction, the timbers being bolted to withstand the winds from the prairies. In 1874 the building was moved to the northeast corner of Wood and Harrison and, when I last saw it, a candy store and barber shop occupied the first floor.

In 1852 Frank Parmelee, a recent arrival in Chicago, started a bus line to the "yards" from Lake and State. A short time later another bus line ran west on Lake to Ann, later being extended to Robey.

Lack of transportation was a drawback to the cattlemen, although the Galena railroad was in operation as early as 1849. It ran from Elgin to Chicago along the present right of way of the Chicago and North Western.

In 1853 the Michigan Central entered Chicago and the cattle yards were moved to 28th street and the lake front. This gave an outlet to the east and soon Boston and even Europe were buying our dressed meats.

How it must grieve the poor "sucker" taxpayers of Chicago and Cook county to see various "spending agencies" holding night sessions to plan how they can cut a few millions off the budgets they have been spending so riotously for many years.

The Tramp's Return.
I've slipped the pack from my weary back
And settled down at home;
No more for me the days of road
With nothing to do but roam.

For I'm growing old and my blood runs cold
And the wild has lost appeal;
Give me my pipe and a fire a-light
And a tasty home cooked meal.

I'm done, I say, with the wailing way
That leads to the mountain crest,
Fast frozen place in stately lines;
No more for me the quest
Of unmanly strains and unmanly dreams;
The sage and sand of cactus land,
And the lure of desert haze.

Yet as I write the sun glows bright
And I sniff the crisp air;
I know a place where the waters race
Down a canyon past compare.
Golden days and misty haze
And a weather beaten shack;
Sky and hill and a cowboy's thrill—
Say, where did I lay my pack?

Stribling Wins

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Young Stribling, Georgia heavyweight title contender, tonight stopped Ralph Smith in the third round of a ten round bout.

The fight was such a debacle for the big western giant, who towered a head above the flashy Georgia scrapper, that the referee interfered to award the technical decision to Stribling.

Smith was knocked down three times in the first round, once in the second, and twice in the third before the fight was stopped.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Jan. 25.—K. O. Christner, a half bald family man from Akron, O., who quit a good job to become a prize fighter, made himself a general nuisance to Jack Sharkey in a ten round meeting at the Garden this evening. Sharkey won the decision, in response to a telegram from Willie Stribling, who wired him saying: "Please don't let this ham hit you on the chin; save that for me at Miami."

But there were moments in the first half of the fight when Sharkey's determination seemed to fall as Christner rolled into him swinging wildly and both gloves thumping him on the head. Sharkey was just bad enough to make the prize fight interesting all the way and just despondent enough all the way to offer the interesting suggestion that the next swipe might send him jumping over the ropes in default.

Legs Never Wobbled.
Sharkey chinned Christner with uppercuts delivered with both hands in every round except the first, and some of his shots went crashing to the point so fast that Christner seemed certain to fall down and go boom, as the new phrase goes. But Christner's stout legs never wobbled and every smack on his concert jaw called for a diving rush into the thick of the trouble, with his gloves sounding allopity-day as Sharkey's ears or ribs or thudding on his chin.

Christner won the first, third and fourth rounds by his buoyancy, floundering in with absolutely no notion of peril and turning the fight into something on the order of a pursuit. In the third he swung over a right that caught Sharkey on the temple as he backed against the ropes, a blow that probably would have sent the Lithuanian on the rug if it had clicked him on the chin.

As Sharkey wavered there, Christner applied himself diligently and confused Jack further with a style of attack generally seen in low rounds. Given the heavy end of a pool cue, Christner would have looked completely at home.

Referee Calls It a Draw.
But most of the way Sharkey laid back with pretty fair judgment of Christner's plunging radius and made him miss his random lunge, whereas he moved in quickly with furious drives to the body or uppercuts to that durable chin.

Both athletes weighed 193 pounds. Jack Denney, the referee, voted to give Christner a draw, but the two judges voted for Sharkey.

The entertainment drew upward of 17,000 patrons to the Garden, including a working majority of the late Tex Rickard's prized best people. Mr. Dudley Field Malone, Mr. Anthony J. [Tony] Drexel-Hippen-Riddle Jr., and John Arthur Johnson, scolded late heavyweight champion of the world, were recognized by the society reporters.

The Supporting Card.
Several unidentified men fought a routine series of supporting bouts as follows:

Jack Gross, Philadelphia, outpointed Emmett Rocco of somewhere else in 10 rounds. This was a punk fight, but very comic. Weights, 204 and 182, respectively.

ISSUES ON CURB
STAGE RECAP
UPON GOOD NEWS

Utility Shares Leaders in Movement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Jan. 25.—The curb market enjoyed a recovery which was irregular but powerful in spots. Utility shares of first rank were the leaders in an upward movement that plainly reflected buoyancy engendered by the small increase in brokers' loans. Buying was steeper than it has been all week.

News was encouraging in character. An easier trend in call and put markets in the reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve bank as the result of the jump in gold reserves seemed to stimulate trading.

The utilities gave one of the most convincing demonstrations of strength. Buying was supposed to be partially due to the fight for supremacy between "two of the largest" utilities companies on the Atlantic seaboard.
